HUNTS DANGERS

Giant Dragonfly Rockets To Sky On Space Probe

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — America's largest scientific satellite, a metal monster named OGO, was rocketed toward a wide looping orbit Friday night to make the most exhaustive study yet of space mysteries and dangers to manned space exploration.

The satellite, shaped like a giant dragonfly, roared aloft from Cape Kennedy at 8:23 p.m. EST atop an Atlas Agena rocket.

After nearly an hour of flight, the rocket was to kick OGO free into a great oval orbit ranging from 170 to 92,000 miles above the earth. On this path, a single circuit of the globe would take 63 hours.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration hoped to know within two hours whether the satellite achieved the intended orbit and was working properly.

MOST ADVANCED

OGO, which stands for Orbiting Geophysical Observatory, was the most advanced scientific satellite yet launched by the United States. It also was the weirdest looking.

When all of OGO's bombs, antennas, tubular control jets, solar panels and other appendages unfold and unravel, the payload measures 59 feet from nose to tail and has a wingspan of 20 feet.

It had scores of "eyes" to peer into space to observe such things as cosmic rays and ultraviolet radiation.

Packed in the insect-shaped frame were 20 of the most sophisticated experiments ever to ride aboard a satellite. They were devised by scientists from seven government laboratories and nine universities and were to record a wide range of phenomena in the earth's atmosphere, magnetosphere and interplanetary space.

The Atlas-Agena rocket went up exactly on time and roared into a cloud-dotted sky, performing well during its first-stage flight, of approximately five minutes.

The Agena second stage separated as planned and ignited. Moments later a Fiberglass shroud that covered the OGO was jettisoned. In the first eight minutes of this all-important first flight everything was perfect.

The next key to a successful mission depended upon a second ignition of the Agena somewhere over Australia 55 minutes after liftoff.

Dr. George Ludwig, project scientist for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, said, "Over-all objectives are to find out as much as we can about the environment near earth and to obtain a better idea of earth-sun relations."

Among benefits, he reported, would be better knowledge of potentially dangerous solar flares which could threaten coming Project Apollo astronaut flights to the moon.

Holiday Slated For Labor Day In Twin Cities

Labor Day will be almost completely a day of leisure for city and parish officials Monday, except for law enforcement and fire protection agencies which expect business as usual.

A Twin Cities check showed that most federal and state offices will be closed as well. City and parish schools will be closed, as will the Monroe school board office. The parish school board office will maintain a "skeleton" crew, with employees being given the option of taking off Labor Day or the Friday after Thanksgiving.

Parish school board maintenance workers will be on duty, to take care of numerous jobs resulting from the opening of school, and will receive a holiday during the Thanksgiving period.

Among law enforcement agencies, the parish Sheriff's Department will go ahead as usual, except for female deputies and secretaries. Monroe and West Monroe fire and police departments plan to maintain regular crews.

Twin City post offices will operate on holiday schedules, delivering only special delivery letters and parcels and offering no window service.

Among cafes, restaurants and service stations, plans vary with some expecting to remain open, others to close. Theatres will be open.

Almost all other businesses and downtown stores will close for the day, as will all banks.

Friends Join Battle Front On Malaysia

New Zealanders, British Helping Stop Indonesians

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP) — British and New Zealand battalions, acting under a Commonwealth defense treaty, moved onto Malaysia's main land fighting front Friday to join in the mopup of Indonesian invaders.

They replaced two Malaysian battalions sent to Singapore to help that island state in the Malaysian federation put down new Malay-Chinese race conflicts. The rioting there counted eight dead and 60 injuries since Wednesday before a rigid curfew and tight roadblocks helped end the outbreak.

RIOT CENTER

The rioting Friday centered in the city's suburban Geylang area.

All Malaysia was in a state of emergency ordered by the Cabinet to meet what it called the threat of aggression by Indonesia, following the reported landing of about 30 Indonesian paratroopers Wednesday in the Labis area of Malaysia.

In Jakarta, Indonesian President Sukarno, his foreign minister, Subandrio, and commanders of the armed forces held a strategy meeting. Sukarno ordered them to "deploy their strength throughout Indonesia" to meet any possible attack.

Throughout the year since Malaysia was formed, Sukarno has been threatening a "crush Malaysia" drive.

Subandrio spoke of movements of naval units in the waters between Indonesia and Malaysia but did not identify them.

British and New Zealand units have helped the Malaysians hunt down Indonesian infiltrators in Sabah and Sarawak states of the federation on Borneo and British naval units have stood by at various times.

On Ailing List

Mrs. Eloise Wade, executive secretary in the Ouachita Valley Boy Scout Council office, was off from work Friday, not feeling well.

Mrs. Wade has had checks made recently at Glenwood Hospital. Friends and co-workers at the office wish her a speedy recovery.

All Smiles

Charles Traylor of West Monroe has a new pride and joy.

He was all smiles Friday as he anticipated the opening of dove season today and showed off his new double-barrel, over and under shotgun.

One of the gun's main admirers was West Monroe Police Chief Johnny Mitchell who snapped off a couple of shots (on empty chambers) at a passing bird.

Jury Acquits 2 White Men Of Shooting

DANIELSVILLE, Ga. (AP) — A white jury acquitted two white men Friday night of murder charges in the death of Lemuel Penn, a Washington Negro educator.

The jury deliberated three hours and 15 minutes, not counting a two-hour dinner break.

The defendants, Joseph Howard Sims, 41, and Cecil William Myers, 28, showed no emotion as the clerk of court read the verdict handed to him by the jury foreman. A brief gasp and murmur of approval was heard from the area where the defendants' families were sitting but the judge rapped for order.

FEDERAL CHARGES

Both men still face federal charges of conspiracy and are under $25,000 federal bond. Defense attorney James Hudson said the men would try to post bond Monday.

The wives of the defendants wept openly at the verdict. Sims wiped tears from his eyes.

Asked by newsmen how she felt about the verdict, Mrs. Sims replied, "It's just fine."

The defendants are still in custody. They must appear before U.S. Commissioner Girard Hawkins in Athens, Ga., Monday to post bond.

Judge Carey Skelton committed the trial to the jury at 4:40 p.m. after the prosecution had asked for the death penalty and the defense had pleaded for acquittal.

In his lengthy charge to the jury, Skelton did not refer to the racial issues injected in the summation of one defense attorney. The judge said the jury had three choices: acquittal, life imprisonment or death.

A grim state prosecutor, Clete Johnson, asked the jury to bring in the death penalty for the defendants, Joseph Howard Sims and Cecil William Myers — among four men originally charged and identified by the FBI as Ku Klux Klansmen.

"The law of the State of Georgia is the death penalty," said Johnson, pounding his fist on the speaker's stand. He described Sims and Myers as merciless killers and said, "The honor of the State of Georgia is on trial here."

A court-appointed defense lawyer, John Darsey, in an impassioned and fiery plea for acquittal, hammered at the racial issue and the federal government.

"They loosed in our midst a horde of federal agents," he shouted, waving his arms and slapping the railing of the jury box. He repeatedly referred to the jury as "this Anglo-Saxon jury."

THE 6-TON PIE

Denby Dale's Prize Stirs Grand Appetite

DENBY DALE, England (AP) — The great Denby Dale pie, a six-ton masterpiece of the pie-maker's art, began cooking Friday. The sweet smell of pie floated across the Yorkshire hills.

With its three tons of prime English beef, 2½ tons of potatoes, half a ton of crust and buckets of seasoning, the pie probably is the biggest in the world.

It certainly is the biggest in Denby Dale, a graystone village which has a habit of making monster pies.

Bubbling and fuming like some monstrous pool, the pie lay cooking in a steel dish 18 feet long, 6 feet wide and 18 inches deep.

The dish in turn lay in a specially constructed electric oven. This is a break with tradition, since previous pies were baked in brick ovens, fired by faggots.

Glass panels in the new oven's side allowed the Denby piemen to watch their pie's progress.

Outside the barn a long line of pie fanciers peered through windows.

This morning the crust goes on. In midafternoon the pie will be drawn forth by a steam traction engine. Six bands and a parson will hymn its praises. Then the eating will begin.

The piemen expect the monster to yield 30,000 portions to be sold for charity at 10 shillings — $140 — each.

Pie became a Denby Dale obsession in the 18th century and by some accounts even earlier.

The first recorded giant pie was devoured in 1788 to celebrate King George III's recovery from madness. The recovery proved as short-lived as the pie.

The pie of 1846, celebrating some cause long forgotten, fell off its platform and was trampled underfoot by 2,000 pie-crazed Yorkshiremen.

Pro-U.S. Candidate Claims Sweeping Victory In Chile

Allende Bows To Crushing National Vote

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — Pro-American Sen. Eduardo Frei scored a sweeping presidential victory Friday and crushed Communist hopes for a quick takeover of Chile.

"We have obtained a truly immense victory," said Frei, a moderate Christian Democrat, in a radio broadcast after his Communist-backed Socialist opponent Salvador Allende conceded.

CRY REVOLUTION

Frei's followers began victory celebrations as Allende's enraged supporters shouted, "Revolution! Revolution!" and charged that President Johnson and Pope Paul VI had supplied money to beat their man.

Steel-helmeted police armed with automatic rifles and tear-gas bombs were on hand to prevent riotous clashes between the rival groups.

From the balcony of his campaign headquarters, Allende told his glum but noisy crowd below: "I admit the election results are adverse to us and that my candidacy has no possibilities of regaining the lost ground."

He urged his people to be quiet but they continued to shout insults at the United States and the Vatican.

"We must remain calm," he said, "now that the verdict of the polls has been adverse to us. We must know how to win and lose."

"I am not broken nor defeated," Allende said. "I have the strength to continue fighting and to remain side by side with those who supported me."

This was Allende's third loss in as many tries for the presidency and observers doubted if he would try again.

The extreme left-winger threw in the sponge as Frei continued to pile up a commanding lead.

Julian Duran of the centrist Radical party was trailing with 55,918 votes.

Allende, long-faced and unsmiling, watched returns come in at his campaign headquarters.

Frei watched at home while thousands of his wildly cheering supporters gathered in downtown Santiago.

As Frei's victory reached landslide proportions, the winner drove to his campaign headquarters through throngs of cheering supporters, many of them honking car horns wildly, shooting off firecrackers and waving flags.

From a balcony he vowed to "push forward greater changes to obtain social justice, to build houses and schools, to give all Chileans stable work."

Although opposed to communism, Frei is a left-of-center politician. His election marked the first time a South American country had returned a "democratic leftist" with a program much like that of Europe's Socialists.

He will succeed centrist Jorge Alessandri, who could not run again.

"I receive this mandate of the people with humility but with strength," Frei declared. "I ask for the cooperation of all Chileans."

With four-fifths of the 2.5 million ballots counted, it was certain Frei had an absolute majority. Consequently there would be no need to throw the elections into the House of Representatives as many experts had predicted.

The results: Frei 1,185,793 Allende 827,324.

Draft Stand 1st Triumph, Burch Says

Johnson Shouts 'Me Too' In Wake Of GOP Promise

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI) — Republican National Chairman Dean Burch said Friday that the Johnson administration immediately "shouted 'me too'" when Republican presidential nominee Barry M. Goldwater pledged a quick end for the military draft.

Burch called it the GOP's "first campaign triumph," and said that "thanks to the Republican party, this outdated and worn out system seems headed for oblivion."

"SOUND POSITION" "If we are lucky and patient we may find more of Sen. Goldwater's sound positions being adopted by this administration," Burch said in a statement. Goldwater promised in his opening campaign speech at Prescott, Ariz., Thursday that Republicans would end the draft as soon as possible.

The Defense Department, under the name of Nils A. Lennartson deputy assistant secretary for public affairs, quickly issued a statement noting that President Johnson ordered a study months ago directed toward ending the draft. The Lennartson statement called it irresponsible to suggest that the draft be ended before a substitute recruiting system is devised for the armed forces.

While the draft statements were being volleyed across the nation, Goldwater was taking stock of the Prescott campaign kickoff.

He scheduled a meeting with aides at his home here to assess the initial campaign appearance, after going with Mrs. Goldwater to Sky Harbor Airport to say goodbye to GOP vice presidential candidate William E. Miller.

The Millers and Goldwaters will meet again Saturday when Goldwater will make a quick cross-country flight to make a few off-the-cuff remarks at Lockport, N. Y., ceremonies marking the start of Miller's campaign. Goldwater then will fly back here.

At the airport Friday, Goldwater listed low morality and lawlessness as top campaign issues. Press secretary Paul F. Wagner told newsmen that Goldwater, often critical of the press, was pleased with its Prescott coverage and with the accuracy of the accounts provided by newsmen.

Area Girl, 13, Electrocuted By Lightning

FARMERVILLE (Special) — Debra Elizabeth Smith, 13, of Rocky Branch community, was electrocuted Friday afternoon when lightning struck as she hung clothes on a metal line at her home.

The accident occurred about 3:15 p.m. Union Parish Coroner Dr. J. G. Norris said the girl must have touched the line just as a lightning bolt struck.

The girl was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Milton A. Smith Jr. of route two, Farmerville. Both her maternal and paternal grandparents are residents of West Monroe.

Miss Smith was an eighth grade student at Farmerville Junior High School.

Final rites will be held at 2 p.m. today in the Church of Christ at Rocky Branch with Bro. V. E. Howard officiating, assisted by Bro. Jerry Lee. Interment will follow in Rocky Branch Cemetery, under direction of Spears Funeral Home of Farmerville.

Survivors, besides the parents, are a brother, Milton Steven Smith, and sister, Ava Loree Smith, both of Farmerville; the maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Goynes, West Monroe; and paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Milton Smith Sr., West Monroe.

Palbearers will be Kelton Howard, Perry Gene Smith, Monroe Alford, Bobby Ramsey, Robert Moore and Garner O'Conner.

2 Students At Louisiana Tech Killed

ARCADIA (Special) — Two Louisiana Tech students were killed Friday afternoon in a flaming truck-car collision on Interstate 20 near Arcadia.

The Bienville Parish sheriff's department identified the victims as Bernard Hay of Shreveport and James C. Painter, 20, of Bossier City. Both men were apparently killed instantly in the collision which occurred about 2 p.m., authorities said.

DRIVER BURNED

Lewis T. Hite, Wickliffe, Ky., driver of the loaded dirt truck was burned seriously, officers said. Hite is employed by a dirt contractor on the construction of the incomplete stretch of the interstate between Arcadia and Gibsland.

According to the sheriff's office, the 1958 model car occupied by Painter and Hay was traveling west on I-20 when it collided with the loaded truck going east in the same lane. The truck was working in the Shreveport-bound lane, authorities said, but the road is officially closed and an exit sign is located at the Arcadia intersection, which the two men had just passed.

Investigating police reported that the two vehicles met almost head-on in a straight stretch of highway. The car apparently skidded to the right side of the truck, striking the gasoline saddle tanks, causing both vehicles to erupt into flames. Both vehicles stopped about 100 feet from point of impact, police said, still together.

Painter, driver of the car, was thrown clear, deputies said, but Hay was pinned in the burning wreckage. He was identified by a body scar, incurred about two years ago in a motorcycle accident.

The men were reportedly en route from Ruston where they attended college to pick up Hay's wife. They were moving to Ruston for the fall semester of school.

Area Showers Possible Today

Residents of the Twin Cities and surrounding area will have warm temperatures and partly cloudy skies through Sunday with scattered thundershowers, mainly in the afternoon.

Highest this afternoon will be 90 to 95, with an overnight low of 70 to 76. Variable winds will be five to 15 miles per hour. No important temperature changes are in sight.

FAA at Selman Field reported only seven hundredths of an inch of rainfall for the Twin Cities Friday.

The high in Monroe Friday was 94 and the overnight low was 68.

MAY BE NEUTRAL

McKeithen Says He'll Tell Soon

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Gov. John McKeithen said Friday he would make known his position in the president's race within the next two weeks and hinted — without saying so — he would remain neutral.

"I don't feel my announcement in the president's race one way or the other would have very much effect," he told his news conference.

ISSUE IS RIGHTS

"Civil rights is the overriding issue," McKeithen added. "It has crowded out every other issue. I don't care if I got atop the highest pine tree in north Louisiana or the highest boat in south Louisiana and hollered my loudest, it wouldn't make any difference."

He said he didn't plan to take part in the proceedings when any of the national candidates came to Louisiana.

McKeithen, a lifelong Democrat, said he expected to make public his decision on his own course "within the next two weeks at least," after he had consulted the people throughout the state "who have helped me with my program."

He said his decision would be guided by what's best for Louisiana, and "that will be the criterion for my decision."

The governor said neither presidential hopeful had contacted him. When asked whether this wasn't the best time for him to seek tideland settlement with

MEETS OLD RECORD

Senate Goes Home After Two Seconds

WASHINGTON (AP) — With a three-day weekend waiting, the Senate and House met Friday just long enough to adjourn in obedience to the Constitution. It took the Senate two seconds, the House 49 minutes.

"The Senate will come to order," said Sen. Lee Metcalf, D-Mont., known far and wide as the fastest gavel in the Senate. "Under the previous order the Senate stands adjourned until Tuesday noon next."

His gavel banged and adjournment bells rang. It matched Metcalf's previous record for brevity, set last Dec. 27.

The House, blocked by a parliamentary problem from facing the Social Security bill and its medicare provision, sped through some minor matters and likewise adjourned until Tuesday noon.

The Constitution specifies that neither house of Congress may adjourn more than three days, not counting Sundays, without the consent of the other house.

Friday's token sessions eliminated the necessity of either House seeking the permission of the other for adjourning for today and Monday.

In the brief House session,

Rep. Cecil R. King, D-Calif., the House sponsor of the medicare program, said he expected the House to vote possibly in the next two weeks on the hospital care for the aged under Social Security.

He said the idea has been circulated "somehow, somewhere" that there would be a vote. But he said, "There will be a vote — whether it be up or down, favorable or unfavorable — this house will have its opportunity to work its will" on the medicare program.

The Senate speed caught the White House by surprise. President Johnson's aides had sent up some nominations to be considered by the Senate but they apparently were not received.

Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., was also waylaid by the rapid-fire session. He had a speech on the military draft ready to deliver — and had to release it as a statement when he ran into the ban on speeches.

Also present in the Senate when it met at 9 a.m.: Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, D-Mont.; Assistant Republican Leader Thomas H. Kuchel of California; Thruston B. Morton, R-Ky., and Frank Carlson, R-Kan.

If you have a question you want answered, write or call "Mr. Editor, Tell Me, Please" at the Morning World and News-Star. We'll be glad to get the information and pass it on to you each Saturday in this column.

What stand has Sen. Barry Goldwater taken on Social Security? Would he abolish the system if elected President?

Here are statements from the Republican National Committee and Sen. Goldwater on his views on Social Security:

"Though Democrats still are claiming that Sen. Barry Goldwater opposes Social Security, the fact is he has consistently voted for improvements in the past and has announced he will do so again when proposals for new benefits come before the Senate.

"The new proposals would raise benefits five per cent, extend payments to a surviving child beyond the present age limit of 18 to a new limit of 22 (provided the child is in school or college) and reduce a widow's eligibility age from 62 to 60. Goldwater voted in 1956 to lower the 65-year limit to 62. "Sen. Goldwater himself has said, 'These are worthy improvements in the Social Security system, enabling it to serve us better in fulfilling its fundamental purpose. I favor a sound Social Security system and I want to see it strengthened.'"

Is there a law in Alabama that will keep Sen. Goldwater's name off the ballot in that state?

The Alabama attorney general's office informs us that under Alabama law, no presidential nominee's name appears on the ballot — only slates of electors. Thus, the people of Alabama will vote for electors and not candidates for President. Apparently, all electors in the state will be unpledged.

I own some Series E savings bonds I purchased in October, 1944. Am I required to redeem this in October this year?

According to the Treasury Department, you can hold the bonds for at least 10 more years. Series E bonds bought between May 1941, and May, 1949, have been given two 10-year extensions which make them 30-year bonds. You can continue to hold your bonds and earn interest at a rate of three and three-quarters per cent compounded semi-annually on the basis of their present value.

Is it necessary to report compensation or pension from the Veterans Administration as income if I am receiving a VA pension?

The person receiving the compensation or pension directly from the VA need not report it as income on his pension claim. However, if the money was paid by the VA to someone else and received by the pensioner as inheritance or gift from that person, it should be reported as income for pension purposes in the same manner as other property received by gift or inheritance.

Record School Budget Okayed For Concordia

VIDALIA (Special) — A record budget of $2,035,844.59 was approved at a meeting this week of the Concordia Parish School Board, marking the first time in the system's history that general fund spending will exceed $2 million.

Announcing the action Friday, after Thursday's board meeting, Supt. J. O. Lancaster said the budget anticipates a surplus of $20,008.57. About 85 per cent of the total is allotted to salaries.

Registration in Concordia Parish schools for the first week was announced by Lancaster as 6,642 students, 326 more than the 6,316 who registered the first week last fall. The total included 3,530 white students, 3,112 Negro.

White enrollment was up from 3,425, Negro up from 2,891.

In personnel action, appointments were made for Miss Paula Tudor, Ferriday Elementary, Mrs. Eva LeBlanc Miller and E. L. Miller, both to Clayton Elementary.

Is it possible for a person of middle age or older, who has no birth certificate, to get his birth recorded through the Social Security office?

Social Security officials report that their office has no way of recording births or issuing delayed birth certificates. However, this service is provided by the Ouachita Parish Health Unit. If this action is desired to establish your correct age for Social Security purposes, officials continued, the office would rather have an old document than a delayed birth certificate. Actual records acceptable would include a family Bible, old census record, old insurance policy, or similar document.

Russian Premier Tongue Lashes Chinese Reds

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia (AP) — Soviet Premier Khrushchev angrily lashed out at the Chinese Communists on Friday. He accused Peking of helping the "most reactionary American military clique and the military and revenge-seeking forces in West Germany."

Khrushchev also said, "The Chinese Communist party shifted a long time ago from ideological differences to interstate relations between China and the Soviet Union."

"Things have gone so," Khrushchev declared, "that the Chinese leaders are making territorial claims and are wounding others that they do not suggest the dimemberment of the Soviet Union."

He said the Peking attitude plays into the hands of the Western powers who hope "to be able to get the forces of socialism against one another."

And in this direction, the "Chinese splitters are rendering them valuable service," Khrushchev charged. The United States, he claimed, was taking advantage of the split to intervene in Southeast Asia.

Speaking at the signing of a Czechoslovak-Soviet statement at the end of a 10-day visit here, Khrushchev also reprimanded members of his own camp who expressed reluctance to convene a world Communist conference to deal with Moscow-Peking ideological differences.

Communist Romania is one country opposed — as are most of the Asian parties. The Italian Communist party, in a deathbed declaration from its late chief, Palmiro Togliatti, doubted that such a conference would be worthwhile.

(Observers in Moscow, where his speech was published by the official news agency Tass, said Khrushchev's remarks in part may have been an answer to the Togliatti declaration.)

Khrushchev summarized the position of the Italian party and others without naming any names. He said some Communist leaders, worried by the situation, agree that the Chinese "are engaged in provocative, disruptive activities," but feel a meeting will not lead to unity.

"These comrades propose to wait with calling a meeting now and meanwhile try to bring closer together the views of all parties," he said.

But to narrow the gap in views, Khrushchev said, "it is necessary to meet, it is necessary to have good will and desire to overcome differences and to unite all Communists. But the leaders of the Communist party of China are known to have no desire to follow the path of overcoming differences."

Red China last week stated out where the differences lay and "confined themselves to gross insults."

Khrushchev said the Chinese are trying to disorganize the Communist and working class movement and are giving "by no means negligible assistance to international imperialism."

"Whom does it benefit?" he asked. "Is it of any advantage for the revolutionary forces? No. It only serves imperialism, the most reactionary American military clique and the militarist and revanchist forces in West Germany."

Khrushchev said rican "aggressive actions" against North Viet Nam and "interference in the internal affairs of Laos" showed that the West is profiting from Communist disunity.

"It is necessary that representatives of the Marxist-Leninist parties meet to appraise results of the foregoing stage, to consider experience of the past few years and to draw up new tasks for the future," Khrushchev said.

"The majority of the fraternal parties count on such a meeting as necessary. However, the leaders of some parties hold a very peculiar view on this question," he added.

In lashing out at West Germany, he attacked a government that has invited him for a visit later this year to discuss the German problem with Chancellor Ludwig Erhard.

"The Communists there (in West Germany) are being persecuted and imprisoned while Chinese slanderous materials are being published and spread there with willingness," he said.

MISS AMERICA PAGEANT

Louisiana Queen Will Leave Today

Miss Cherie Martin of Pineville, the current Miss Louisiana, is "looking forward" to her trip next week to Atlantic City, N. J., to compete in the Miss America Pageant.

Miss Martin is scheduled to leave today for Atlantic City where beautiful girls from all over the nation will gather to participate in the stiff, six-day competition. Miss America 1965 will be crowned Saturday night.

The Louisiana queen said that the contest officially opens Monday and runs through the following Sunday, Sept. 13.

"I know that the competition will be very stiff and the schedule quite demanding," Miss Martin said, "but I am going up there to do my very best for the state of Louisiana."

to her three years ago by her twirling teacher's mother.

She said she had worn it almost continuously since then, "and I really believe it has brought me good luck," she said. Although she won't be able to wear it during next week's competition, she explained that her mother will wear it for her.

The beauty's plans for the future are to complete her education at Northeast Louisiana State College.

"My father, who is with the Soil Conservation Service, is being transferred to Ft. Worth, Tex., on Oct. 1, but I will return to Northeast," she added.

Monroe Postal Employees Cited

"Everybody has been so nice to me," she explained. "The members of the Pineville Junior Chamber of Commerce gave me a going-away party Monday night, and the citizens of Pineville donated money so that my hairdresser could go with me to Atlantic City."

Miss Martin's mother and hairdresser, Mrs. Connie Lindsay of Pineville, will accompany her on the trip. The three are set to leave Alexandria at 6 a.m. today and fly to New Orleans where they will meet Mrs. Angie Hargiss, official chaperone for Miss Louisiana.

Mrs. Hargiss, will represent the Monroe Junior Chamber of Commerce, sponsors of the Miss Louisiana Pageant held in Monroe for the first time this year.

When she arrives at the pageant, Miss Martin said she will know Miss Mississippi, Miss Florida, Miss Missouri, Miss Arkansas and Miss Delaware. She said they are very charming.

A citation for "outstanding participation" in the recent savings bond campaign was presented Friday to Monroe Postmaster Woodrow Hathorn.

Tom Grissom of Shreveport, area manager from the United States Savings Bond Division, in presenting the citation, said the Monroe Post Office had more employees buying bonds than any of the other large post offices in the state.

There were 102 out of 138 employees at the Monroe post office buying bonds.

Red China last week stated out where the differences lay and "confined themselves to gross insults."

Khrushchev said the Chinese are trying to disorganize the Communist and working class movement and are giving "by no means negligible assistance to international imperialism."

Castro's Showcase

If we are to receive any doubtful benefits from the presence of Castro Cuba as a showcase of communist failure, we should look at the system rather than the personalities involved. Khrushchev in Russia and Mao Tse-Tung in China have really done no better than Castro. And neither Russia nor Red China is handicapped by a one-crop economy.

So it's no surprise that Cuban credit on the world market — a credit formerly based on the island's sugar crop — has collapsed.

The news from Cuba has it that the Cuban National Bank is in the hands of amateurs and these so-called "managers" do not have any accurate figures as to how much money the country owes abroad or to whom the money is owed.

Thus the argument as to whether or not the free world nations should barter or sell goods to the Castro government may be settled automatically. Businessmen, especially those brought up on free world trade principles, cannot continue dealing with a system which confuses its credits and debits.

Cuba may be already termed the "skid row" of the Americas. If it were not for its military significance, we suspect the Soviet Union would be happy to leave the island in the hands of Castro's lost colony of bearded incompetents. But this is not likely to happen. Khrushchev cannot afford to drop so important a piece of real estate right off the Florida coast and still hold his position of authority among the Soviet nations.

Other Latin American nations, meanwhile, are moving ahead in terms of national wealth and the spreading of that wealth among greater numbers of people. For example, industrial production in Venezuela was up 1.7 per cent in 1963, and gains of up to 15 per cent are anticipated for 1964.

President Raul Leoni plans to double enrollments in secondary schools, expand irrigated farmlands from 125,000 to 625,000 acres, and to build 380,000 new homes during his five-year tenure of office. These progressive moves are being made in Venezuela under a government that is militantly anti-communist. In fact, it was here that communist agents, trained and equipped from Cuba, tried to shoot up the election that put Leoni in office.

In Cuba, poverty has caused a once thriving sugar economy to collapse because the new Castro state exists obviously for the power of its rulers and not for the people. But this is nothing new—it has happened in every communist state during this century and in other totalitarian governments down through the ages.

The Organization of American States took note of this during the summer and voted 15-4 to brand Cuba under its present rule as a bad neighbor and a threat. All but the same four nations — Mexico, Uruguay, Bolivia and Chile, broke diplomatic relations with Soviet Cuba and added economic sanctions.

We understand that now Bolivia and Chile have reconsidered and broken relations. That leaves Mexico and Uruguay on the list of those Latin American nations passively "backing" Castro.

There is little hope that Cuba will cave in for its own failures. Totalitarian governments make sure the military is the strongest element in society, and there are European communist technicians on hand to make sure this remains the case in Cuba.

But among the civilian population, there is despair, anxiety, poverty and hopelessness. The communist overlords in Russia and China don't appear bothered at all. In fact, this pattern exists in those countries just as it does in Cuba. All of which speaks poorly for those who would establish more socialism in this country under the heading of a "war on poverty."

Earned Rights

An American company brought suit against another claiming infringement of two important process patents which have to do with the production of a valuable antibiotic. The suing company says it has spent more than $16 million over the past 20 years on antibiotic product and process improvement work.

The defendant company, according to its officials, has business arrangements with an Italian pharmaceutical concern. Significantly, Italy does not recognize pharmaceutical patent rights and has not had a pharmaceutical invention in the past 25 years.

But, whatever comes of the legal action in this particular case, it is indicative of a problem which has become a most serious one in recent times. Briefly, the problem is one of "economic piracy," whether or not that term is applicable in the new action at law. For instance, a federal grand jury recently handed down criminal indictments against members of an international ring accused of stealing antibiotic cultures and processes. These, say the indictments, were sold to Italian pharmaceutical manufacturers.

An officer of the company bringing the new action says that his concern "... has every intention of vigorously defending its earned rights to the advances which have resulted from its major investment in medical research. The patent system is the constitutional safeguard which makes such investment possible. Unless halted, the erosion of patent rights must significantly affect U.S. industrial research upon which some $18.5 billion was spent in 1963. The consequences would include the loss both of U.S. jobs and the ability of this nation to compete in world markets." This is something we cannot afford.

Bank Of Freedom

Over a relatively brief period of years, American banking has gone through a steady and meaningful evolution — an evolution, in fact, which would seem actually revolutionary to the bankers and the bankers' customers at turn-of-the-century times.

The upshot of this is what is called "full service" banking. It is precisely what the term implies. The "full service" bank provides the usual checking and savings accounts. Then it offers loans at low rates for practically any legitimate purpose—home loans, auto loans, personal loans, business loans, and so on—as a lengthy list. It recognizes—as do the basic laws under which it operates—that the intelligent use of credit keeps the wheels of industry and business turning and serves an essential need of American enterprise and the American family, which in turn compounds employment, production and earnings.

The success of "full service" banking is a matter of record. It has totally justified its existence. At the same time, its ability to fully meet the needs of the nation and the community is threatened by proposed laws which would impose limitations, some arbitrary and narrow, on its services. As an example, legislation would be applied to matters which should be determined and reconsidered from time to time by the bank supervisory agencies.

At the same time, most authorities agree that there is a need for a very different kind of legislation — legislation that would modernize the lending authority of national banks and provide them with greater flexibility in meeting requests for loans. As an example here, there would be sound and moderate liberalization of the terms on which the banks concerned can make loans on forest tracts and on residential real estate.

How It Seems To Mother

WILLIAM F. BUCKLEY, JR. American People Unprepared For 'Win' Policy In Vietnam

WE ARE REALLY UP against it in South Vietnam, where chaos reigns, and we are made to look almost as foolish as we deserve. On a relaxed occasion just after his nomination at San Francisco, Senator Goldwater was being introduced to some delegation or other and the master of ceremonies referred to him as "Barry." "I must get over that habit," he chuckled jovially, "since before long I know I'll have to refer to him as 'Mr. President.'" "The first one of my old friends who refers to me as 'Mr. President,'" said Goldwater taking the floor, "I'll name ambassador to South Vietnam." There is, indeed, no greater punishment.

Consider the role of Henry Cabot Lodge, who is roaming Europe these days like the Flying Dutchman, seeking to explain America's position to proud European chancellors, who view him with amazement, and say to him yes yes, Mr. Ambassador, and isn't the weather in Europe fine during the late summer weeks? What is Ambassador Lodge saying to them? What can he say? He is on record as having said, on several occasions, that the war in South Vietnam was going spiffingly for our side. He is on record as having deplored, oh how he deplored, the persecution of the Buddhists under the reign of President Diem. Diem is out now, liquidated by a bullet through his head, you know — and that was to end the tension between the Catholics and the Buddhists, between the neutralists and the anti-communists. Nine months and three regimes later, we face as many religious riots — more actually — than we faced a summer ago; a demoralized Army, a fierce, internecine political quarrel within the ruling junta. Meanwhile the Vietcong with relentless vigor pursues its goal, which is the domination of South Vietnam. And Mr. Lodge, sipping sherry, tries, unsuccessfully, to engage the attention of serious men in Europe with the forlorn message that everything is under control in South Vietnam, that the gifted diplomacy of the Kennedy-Johnson-Lodge leadership will triumph in that crucial peninsula of Southeast Asia.

AND SENATOR GOLDWATER is of course stuck with the question: what is the alternative? I pity the Senator. For the simple reason that he cannot give the obvious answer. Goodness knows if my primary job were to win a majority of the American people over to my position in the voting booth I would scarcely dare to speak my mind on the subject of South Vietnam. The euphoric dialect of American politics encourages the notion that there are painless solutions to every problem. If there are aged who are sick, why simply turn over their problems to the federal government. If there are poor, let them be rich. If there are Communists to be rooted out of South Vietnam, why root them out, and don't talk about the ugly costs involved in the military question.

Senator Goldwater, in a spirit of desperation absolutely understandable in the light of the speed with which his enemies pounce on any realistic suggestion, has now said that maybe the time has come to negotiate with the Red Chinese Government. There is a sense in which, considering the politically available realities, he is absolutely and unchallengeably correct. What would you do under the circumstances? Win the war against the Vietcong, I hear someone say off in the wings. That, sir, is my own preference too. But do you realize that any such suggestion involves a declaration of purpose which is immediately magnified in the American public opinion community as a Call for Nuclear War? Never mind that the chances that would be the result are infinitesimally small. The point Senator Goldwater and the leaders of the Republican Party appear to have discovered is very simply this: that the American people are not prepared to make the sacrifices that are apparently necessary in order to keep South Vietnam free. Accordingly, we are at the end of the rope. So that President Johnson, like Barry Goldwater, has only the alternatives of saying: we will surrender, or we will negotiate. Remember, the third alternative — we shall win — is eliminated by the chorus that tells us that we dare not interfere with the sacred right of North Vietnam to launch an aggressive war against South Vietnam.

SO WHAT TO DO UNDER the circumstances? If you cannot beat the enemy, either because you lack the strength to do so or the will to do so, the thing to do is to negotiate with him. Negotiate while you still have a few cards to play. Rather negotiate now with the Red Chinese, than a few months from now when Saigon falls into the hands of the neutralists. Most preferable of all, to be sure, a stern program of counter-reaction: an ultimatum of some meaningful kind to the Hanoi Government — draw your guerrillas back from South Vietnam or prepare to receive our fury. But we cannot bring ourselves to do that, and so must play politics as the art of the possible. Senator Goldwater's conscience will be relieved, presumably, by the knowledge that American politics have him no practical choice. It remains for Americans to square with their consciences the fact that on the one hand we encouraged the South Vietnamese freedom fighters to believe that we were with them unto the end; but that when the test finally came we withdrew. Because, we were afraid. Because we didn't, don't, have the nerve to face up to the Communists when the Communists really go to work against our soft underbelly, which is surely the biggest softest underbelly in the history of great nations.

BASCOM TIMMONS

Bobby's Election In New York Doubtful

POLITICAL PREDICTIONS at the moment strongly favor President Lyndon B. Johnson to carry the key State of New York but some forecasts indicate the election of Robert F. Kennedy is more doubtful.

The Kennedy race for United States Senator from the Empire State against Kenneth Keating, the incumbent, will in all probability be the center of attention in Congressional contests this fall. The Attorney General, thwarted in his desire to be President Johnson's Vice Presidential running mate, is leaving his cabinet post to devote full time to his campaign. In that drive he may find that instead of helping the President, as he expressed confidence on several occasions he could do, he may be depending in considerable measure on the President's pulling power at the head of the Democratic ticket to help him win New York.

FROM THE VIEWPOINT of national interest, the Kennedy candidacy will provide a severe test of the strong attraction of the Kennedy family in the East and the overall political power of the Kennedy family, which many party professionals think will be tremendous in Massachusetts for at least another generation and legendary in other eastern States for years to come. It must be remembered that Kennedy who has only been a legal inhabitant of New York State for a few days and will not be able to vote there in the November election, is running in a State which now has a Republican Governor — Nelson A. Rockefeller — two Republican U. S. Senators — Keating and Jacob K. Javits, and 21 Republican Representatives in Congress to 20 Democrats.

Despite his record as Attorney General which assumedly will help him as much in New York as it would have hurt him as a Vice Presidential candidate in the South, Robert F. Kennedy is running in a State which is not always controlled in State elections by New York City votes.

HE LIVED IN THE metropolitan New York area for 20 of his 38 years, but the family background is Massachusetts. Were it not for the great Democratic following of his martyred brother, any thought of his suddenly moving in New York State to run for U. S. Senator, even with the united support of city and upstate Democratic leaders, would certainly seem fool hardy to most New Yorkers. As it is, leading New York City newspapers, including the New York Times have urged him not to take the step to which he has now committed himself.

The unusual spectacle of two candidates from other States suddenly moving to New York to run against an established Republican will raise the "carpet-bagger" issue of Reconstruction days in the campaign and is reminiscent of the famed remark of the dapper and amusing late U. S. Senator from Illinois, J. Hamilton Lewis, who in 1930 was opposed by two women candidates for the Senate. The Republican nominee was Congresswoman Ruth Hanna McCormick, daughter of one time famed Republican boss, Mark Hanna of Ohio. "My dear constituents," J. Ham would say, "I must run very hard and very fast, for I have two ladies pursuing me!" He won the election handily.

KEATING COULD DEVISE a variant on the Lewis theme.

Steven Smith, Kennedy's brother-in-law and campaign manager, who also directed President Kennedy's successful 1960 campaign in New York State, undoubtedly is studying again the results of that contest in which Republican nominee Richard M. Nixon carried all but three of the 58 counties outside New York City. John F. Kennedy, however, carried New York City by more than half a million and the State by more than a third of a million votes.

Keating probably would have had an easy victory this year if the Kennedy escutcheon had not been raised over the field of Gotham. New York is surprisingly short of Democrats with outstanding strength this year, just as it has been in the last two senatorial elections. But this seems to be the time to learn whether the Kennedy reputation is enough to guarantee victory.

RALPH DE TOLEDANO

'Protectionism' And National Defense

BACK IN THE DAYS of President McKinley, the "Protectionism" of high tariffs was an economic matter. Those who wished to do away with tariffs argued a good free enterprise line — and got nowhere. Now it is the other way around. Though low labor costs and American-financed automation overseas are plunging a knife into the unprotected ribs of American industry, it is considered somewhat fantastic to call for tariff protection.

This is a battle that will be fought out in Congress, in the private confines of the Tariff Commission, and at the board meetings of American corporations. Because there is a time lag in our thinking, most of the argument will be in economic terms. But high tariff protection involves a good deal more in these days of a shrinking globe and an unending cold war than the profit and loss of cost accounting.

As a matter of principle, I believe in allowing the free play of a free marketplace determine industrial development. We have already seen that an expanding European economy creates its own pressures which force up labor costs and, eventually, bring foreign production into a more equitable competitive posture with American industry. But in certain industries, other factors come into the picture. Dollars and cents must then retire in favor of dollars and sense.

THE FACTORS I have in mind are tied in directly with the cold war and with America's need to be able to produce rapidly and efficiently in times of crisis. For this, there must be a corps of skilled technicians and producers and an industrial plant to which they are attached. By strict free enterprise logic, this capacity would have been wiped out in the free market without tariff protection. For the defense of the United States, however, certain industries must be kept alive. During World War II, American watchmakers developed the timing devices for use by the military in mortar and artillery projectiles. They had also trained men in the art of making these devices — so that there was no critical shortage during those terrible days.

The American watch industry, which is pioneered in the military field, is now threatened by foreign watchmakers. Unless Congress acts to protect it, the next years will see a withering away of vital techniques in watchmaking and allied fields in the United States. In the day of the missile, with all its complex timing devices, and the whole technology of modern warfare, this could leave the country with one hand tied behind its back at the moment of decision.

GENERAL OMAR N. Bradley, now board chairman of the Bulova Watch Company, has warned of this in strong terms.

He has told the Senate Armed Services Committee that Swiss watchmakers hope to "eliminate the technological capability" of America's jeweled-lever watch industry. If they are successful, he added, "the United States will end up as the only major power with no jeweled — lever watch industry available for defense purposes."

It was American artisans who developed the safety switch for the engines of the Minuteman missile. They also created the complex electromechanical devices that sense, measure, and coordinate those meters which make sure that a missile's warhead will be "armed" not too soon and not too late after it is launched. These, and a host of other devices necessary for the protection of the United States, are the direct result of the work of skilled technicians in the American watchmaking industry.

The description of these devices is too technical for this writer. (He had trouble with physics in his prep school days.) But for those who are interested the Bulova Watch Company — or other American companies — can furnish the details.

THE IMPORTANT POINT to consider, however, is this: The United States would never have had the men or the plant to make these devices had the proponents of no protection won the battle. The domestic jeweled-lever watch industry sank its roots in the American soil over 100 years ago. It has asked no more of the Federal government except that its throating edge of foreign competition. For this, it has more than given its quid pro quo.

But if General Bradley's warning is not heeded, their reward will be extinction. And the major victim will be American defense. Watches and watchmakers may seem like pretty small potatoes in this billion-dollar, big deal world. But those entrusted with our defense will never forget that old saying that "for want of a shoe, the horse was lost" — with all its ecorras.

Khanh's Key Officers Quit But Not Leaving Posts Yet

By MALCOLM W. BROWNE

SAIGON, South Viet. (AP) — All army officers in key jobs of South Viet Nam's caretaker government have handed in their resignations, but will stay on through a two-month transitional phase, Maj. Gen. Nguyen Khan said Friday.

Rule by resignees may put off the political showdown in Saigon until the Nov. 3 presidential election in the United States, where conduct of the American-supported war on Communist Viet Cong guerrillas is a campaign issue.

The administration of South Viet Nam was left in a situation as confused as at any point in this Southeast Asia nation's history.

A U.S. Army helicopter crewman was killed by Communist guerrilla fire 34 miles southeast of Saigon. He was the 191st American to die in combat in Viet Nam since December 1961.

With military operations picking up, three other Americans were injured in two aircraft crashes and two U.S. Marine enlisted men were wounded when they ran into a Viet Cong mine field.

Back in the premiership after a five-day absence, Khanh told a news conference that resignations are in hand from all cabinet ministers and state secretaries who are army officers, including himself.

The 37-year-old Khanh said that, for the time being, the three-general triumvirate organized in the riotous crisis last week will stay in operation as a Steering Committee.

Serving on this committee with Khanh are Maj. Gen. Duong Van Minh, the chief of state he twice deposed; and Lt. Gen. Tran Thien Khiem, defense minister and chief of the armed forces.

Khanh and Minh are Buddhists, the religion of most South Vietnamese. Khiem is a member of the Roman Catholic minority.

A government spokesman said earlier in the day that Khiem had resigned. Buddhist spokesmen had called for him and some other top Vietnamese military men to quit their political posts.

Khiem was quoted as saying he had "had enough of Buddhists running the country."

Asked about this, Khanh said "Gen. Khiem is still a member of the three-man Steering Committee, but he has resigned from his defense ministry post."

The general, who had sported a goatee since he took power in a coup Jan. 30, appeared before the newsmen clean-shaven. He said he removed the beard to show his determination to be decisive — and to deprive newspaper cartoonists of the readily recognized feature.

Controls Could Imperil School Accreditations

Control of state school fundsbody else.

from outside the Louisiana Education Department could endanger the schools' accreditation by the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, W. E. Whetstone of Monroe said Friday.

Whetstone, Fifth District member of the State Board of Education, indicated that a spending control exercised by the legislative budget committee, headed by Monroe's Sen. Jamar Adecock, could result in a questioning of accreditation.

Whetstone, back from a special board meeting in Baton Rouge Thursday, said the board would invite Gordon Sweet, executive secretary of the Southern Association, to meet with the board and college presidents Oct. 2-3.

"Then we're going to appear before the budget committee," he added.

"We'll be glad to meet with them," Adecock said, when contacted. "We don't want to see our schools lose their accreditation any more than any-

"We're going to insist on proper spending of state funds. That's our job."

Whetstone explained that the Southern Association has regulations on the control of funds spent for education.

The budget committee reported Thursday that it injected over $2 million included in the budget.

"Any time they make any changes without going back through the State Board of Education, then they violate the rulings," Whetstone said.

Ancient Tunnels

Threaten Cave-In

ROME (AP) — The Piazza Fiume, a big Rome square, was closed to traffic Friday because of cave-in danger after rock beneath the pavement was found honeycombed with ancient Roman tunnels.

The tunnels were found during digging for a pedestrian underpass. The square will remain closed until the tunnels are filled.

City Officials In Mixing Suit At Greenwood

GREENVILLE, Miss. (AP)—Atty. Gen. Robert Kennedy accused Greenwood city officials of acting to preserve segregation at a racially-troubled downtown theater.

In a suit filed Thursday in federal court here Kennedy asked that the defendants be prevented from interfering with Negro patrons of any public accommodation.

The suit also asked orders to require adequate police protection, to prevent efforts to close a public accommodation trying to serve Negroes, and from seeking criminal charges against those who integrate such a facility.

Named as defendants were Mayor Charles Sampson, Commissioner B. F. Hammond, Police Chief Curtis Lary and assistant chief Miller Wyatt.

The suit charged the defendants acted to keep Negroes from "full enjoyment of the facilities of the Leflore Theater."

A series of incidents, the suit charged, occurred between July 5 and July 20 and Sampson had not ordered Lary to disperse large crowds which gathered on various dates at the theater when Negroes began efforts to use it following passage of the civil rights act.

Hammond, Lary and Wyatt were charged with asking theater owner Harry Marchand to file criminal charges against Silas McGhee for his entrance at the theater July 5.

McGhee later was shot in ambush in the Negro section of Greenwood.

The suit asked a three-judge federal panel to hear the case and the city has 20 days in which to answer the charges.

Sampson commented the suit was "again a case of the federal government trying to take over a city police force forcing us to help them integrate, which is a federal law and a federal liability."

City Atty. Hardy Lott labeled "completely ridiculous and untrue" the section about officials asking Marchand to press charges against McGhee.

NAZI PARTY Leader George Lincoln Rockwell, with pipe, takes a seat between two members of his organization at Friday's hearing on Cuban visitors. CHEERED PLANE CRASH

Cuban Trip Leader Testifies To HUAC

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The leader of an unauthorized trip to Cuba by 84 young Americans acknowledged Friday that he cheered a film scene of an American plane being shot down in Viet Nam.

Edward Lemansky, 24, of Brooklyn, testifying before the House Committee on Un-American Activities, was interrupted as he attempted to explain his reasons.

He later told a reporter that he was not cheering at the death of the pilot but because "it meant the war was coming closer to an end."

"The sooner the American government loses the war," he said, "the sooner peace will come."

Committee counsel Alfred M. Nittle had asked Lemansky whether he cheered while he and the other Americans watched the film during the visit to Cuba as guests of the Fidel Castro regime.

Lemansky began to tell why he opposed U.S. participation in the Vietnamese fighting. Rep. Richard Ichord, D-Mo., who was presiding and who had told Lemansky previously he was "growing increasingly impatient" with his "harangues," banged his gavel and directed Nittle to ask the next question.

Lemansky, an avowed Communist, repeatedly criticized the committee and twice invoked the Fifth Amendment on grounds of possible self-incrimination.

While Ichord gaveled Lemansky to order time and again, George Lincoln Rockwell and two members of his American Nazi party sat in the audience under heavy police guard.

There was no repeat Friday of the physical violence that marred the Ichord subcommittee's first hearing Thursday, when a Nazi attacked a witness.

Three U.S. marshals sat facing the audience to block any charge similar to the one Lon L. Dunaway, 28, of Arlington, Va., made on Morton B. Slater, a student witness.

The Nazi attacker was bound over under $1,000 bond Friday for jury trial Sept. 21 on charges of simple assault and disorderly conduct. Slater left a local hospital and appeared outside the House Office Building during a hearing recess. He said he still was suffering headaches because of the attack.

Rep. August E. Johansen, R-Mich., a committee member, told the House he was moving to have Dunaway cited for contempt of Congress.

Critics Warn Erhard On Khrushchev's Visit

BONN, Germany (AP) — Chancellor Ludwig Erhard has created a domestic political issue with his invitation to Soviet Premier Khrushchev to come to Bonn for political talks.

Khrushchev accepted the invitation Thursday and is expected here this winter.

Erhard's opponents have indicated they will make the most of it if the meeting fails to bring positive results. He will be criticized as a bungler in foreign affairs who hurt the cause of Berlin and German reunification.

That could mean trouble in the general election next year.

Erhard, who succeeded Konrad Adenauer as chancellor on Adenauer's retirement last October, will be leading his Christian Democratic party in a campaign for the first time.

Erhard wants to win a parliamentary majority for the party to put an end to the present dependence on a coalition and prove his own political prowess.

West Berlin Mayor Willy Brandt and Adenauer were reserved Thursday in their comment, but made it clear they have misgivings about this experiment in Soviet-West German relations. These could turn into strong criticism.

Brandt is the head of the opposition Social Democratic party and would become chancellor if his party wins the next election. He needs a good issue to overcome Erhard's present big edge.

Adenauer, though 88, has remained head of the Christian Democratic party. As chancellor, he pursued a hard line policy toward the Soviet Union. He always belittled Erhard's abilities, particularly in the field of foreign policy.

The big argument expected to be used against receiving Khrushchev is that this will be taken by the world to mean that West Germany, in effect, has accepted the status quo in Europe.

For years the government has held that East Germany, now a separate Communist state, must be reunified with West Germany. The Soviet Union was held up as the villain preventing this.

Erhard would come out of the Khrushchev talks a great national hero if he could make but wants a chance to show some real progress toward reunification and settling the related Berlin problem. But his own spokesmen have warned against expecting anything like this.

Khrushchev, with the Communist Chinese attacking him for being soft on capitalism, is unlikely to give away an important part of Soviet World War II gains.

Officials in Bonn report that the chancellor has no illusions but wants a chance to show Khrushchev how serious he and his people are about this issue.

The chancellor wants Khrushchev to realize that a reunited Germany will always be a source of tension and there can be real peace only if the country is reunited," one official explained.

The formal invitation to Moscow is expected to suggest a stay of about five days.

Erhard is reported to think that even if all this produces nothing immediate, besides perhaps some relatively minor trade agreement, the people will admire him for having made a try. He is a believer in face-to-face diplomacy.

GIBSON'S DISCOUNT

By DOROTHY KILGALLEN

By PAUL ANKA

I've been on the international circuit almost from the time I started in show business at the age of 15. I love traveling, I love my work and I love people most of all.

Music more than anything else has welded teenagers of most of the civilized countries of the world into one happy, youthful world force. I'm very glad to have been in so many places to see this happening.

I've also learned never to underestimate, or try to fathom, the workings of the minds of over-ardent fans.

During my appearances at the Olympia Theatre in Paris, a couple of attractive young maids entered my hotel room and proceeded to make the bed, dust, sweep and do all the other things a maid is supposed to do. I began to feel a little uneasy because they kept looking at me and giggling while they worked. They also seemed to take much longer with their duties than I thought was necessary. I later learned why. The girls had bribed the regular hotel maids to let them take their places.

When a girl in San Remo, Italy, asked for my autograph, I was a bit befuddled, since she had in evidence no book, handbag, menu, program, or other piece of paper on which to write, with no pen or pencil to write with.

I smiled and said I'd be happy to accommodate her, but I had no pen and no paper.

"Oh," she replied matter-of-factly, "but I have." With that she reached inside her massive beehive hairdo and brought forth an autograph book and a ballpoint pen.

Japanese ingenuity was evident once again during my tour when I stopped in Tokyo, and was approached by a teen-aged youth who bowed politely and asked if I would "honor" him with my "esteemed" autograph. How can you refuse a flattering request like that?

"Of course," I replied, returning his bow, whereupon he presented what looked like a salesclerk's book, complete with half a dozen carbon papers between the sheets.

It turned out that several friends, unable to join him, had requested he obtain autographs for them.

In West Berlin I was flattered by the approach of a pair of adorable twin girls, about 14 years old, who cornered me in my hotel lobby and politely asked for my autograph.

I took out my pen, picked up a piece of hotel stationery, and asked them for their first names, so that I could add a personal touch to the inscription.

"Oh, it's not for us," they giggled in unison, "it's for Mama. She's the Paul Anka fan in the family. We like Bach!"

Kids are the same all over. They're unpredictable, nicely nutty, and wonderfully warm deep down inside.

Like the youngsters in Warsaw, behind the Iron Curtain. At my concerts, they all sang along when I did "Diana" and "Put Your Head On My Shoulder," and I was absolutely amazed at their English. They knew every word, and their pronunciation was nearly perfect.

I remarked on this to the manager of the theatre, and he laughed. "They learn your songs by playing your records over and over," he explained, "without ever understanding the words. If you want to know the truth, most of them can't even say 'hello' in English!"

While touring several cities in Poland, I was struck by the beauty of the girls and the independent spirit revealed by the people. I also noticed that the churches were thronged on Sunday and there was evidence on all sides that the government was very wary in its relations with the people. I remember meeting a group of teenagers of both sex who told me they played my records. When I asked them if the authorities might not frown on the playing of music and songs from the other side of the Iron Curtain, one bright young thing smiled and said something in Polish which my translator said went like this: "They didn't dare take the cows from the peasants and they won't dare take our records from us." And this I thought was a political revelation in one sentence.

All over the world, teenagers are reaching for life with both hands, bounding up and down, full of joy. They all say, "Give me your handkerchief, or kiss me, Paul, or autograph my record." Then when they get to be about 18, I think they begin to go on their own different ways. But before that, they're all alike — everywhere.

MASQUERADING M.D.

Officials Investigate 'Medical' Deception

DETROIT (UPI)—A bogus "doctor," who got his medical training by simply putting on a white coat and walking into classes at three colleges, was in seclusion Friday while authorities traced his four-year career as a respected physician.

The fantastic masquerade of "Dr." Thomas M. Novak was revealed Thursday by state Atty. Gen. Frank J. Kelley. In a report issued from his Lansing office, Kelley told how Novak parlayed a high school education and a little medical knowledge into a practice that gave him an annual income of up to $40,000.

"One of the most fantastic cases of deception in Michigan history," Kelley said. Then he turned the case over to Wayne County Prosecutor Samuel Olsen.

Novak's credentials as a doctor consisted of a formal education at a Detroit high school and attendance at medical colleges in Michigan and the East. He never actually enrolled at Wayne State University, Johns Hopkins University and the University of Michigan.

His parents thought he was attending the colleges, and even his wife and two children thought he was a registered physician. But, in reality, Novak merely was reading medical textbooks and attending medical classes as an unregistered observer.

In June of 1960, he bought a Detroit medical practice from the relatives of a doctor who had died and hung up his shingle.

In the first six months, he took in $15,000. Last year he made $40,000 and this year he already had grossed $35,000.

The money came from $5 and $10 office and house calls. He "specialized" in internal medicine, heart, lungs, blood pressure, diabetes and non-surgical procedures. Since he had no hospital privileges, those patients who required hospital care were referred to registered physicians.

Novak's deception came to light when he applied for doctor's liability insurance. A routine check with the state board of registration in medicine revealed that Novak was not licensed to practice medicine.

Novak, 29, then was summoned to Lansing and he revealed the entire story to Kelley. Asst. Wayne County Prosecutor William Long said he was questioning Novak's "patients" to see if they would testify to the fact that Novak treated and prescribed for them. Novak could be charged with prac-

Jury Approves Resolution On Census Figures

JONESVILLE (Special)—The Catahoula parish police jury has adopted a resolution certifying the census of ward six, and asked the governor to call an election for an additional police jury member and school board member for the ward.

The census on the population was sponsored by the Jonesville Lions club and was taken by Douglas McClure. The official census figures showed that ward six now has a population of 5,351, which entitles the ward to an additional police jury member and school board member. The resolution was introduced by ward six police juror Colvin Manning.

The census also showed an increase in population in the town of Jonesville now at 2,708.

The 1960 census showed a population of 4,687 for ward six and 2,347 for the Town of Jonesville. This is an increase of 664 for the ward and 361 for the town.

The increase in population was also reflected in school enrollment.

High CORE Chief Takes New Post

NEW YORK (UPI)—The third-ranking official of the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE) resigned three weeks ago in a difference of opinion over the efficacy of continued civil rights demonstrations, it was learned Friday.

A spokesman for the civil rights group confirmed the resignation of Norman Spencer Hill Jr., national program director of CORE since 1961. He has taken a job with the industrial union department of the AFL-CIO in Washington.

It was learned that Hill's letter of resignation to CORE chief James Farmer said he thought the time had passed for emphasis on demonstrations and urged a "political alliance" with progressive sections of labor, the churches, liberals, democratic radicals and intellectuals to combat the white backlash.

MIAMI SWEEPS UP

Cleo's Wreckage Almost Repaired

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—A tourist arriving Friday in this glittering resort city might have asked: "Was Cleo here?"

Along Collins Avenue in Miami Beach, workmen still clamored around some luxury hotels, repairing damage done when the hurricane's 135-mile-an-hour gusts smashed through plate glass windows.

Otherwise, only the fallen trees and branches uncollected from yards and parkways still marked the trail of the lusty lady that roared up Florida's gold coast last week.

The broken glass and signboards and the battered awnings have been swept up, and storm-wise Miami is going about their business as though nothing had happened.

For Miami, the passage of the hurricane was an ordeal — but also a triumph. Though her vicious blows brought $115 million in property damage to Florida, by Gov. Farris Bryant's estimate, Cleo could not take a single life.

Houses strongly erected under a strict building code adopted years ago kept residents safe from the howling winds of a hurricane that had taken 135 lives in Haiti, 14 on the island of Guadeloupe and at least one in Cuba.

Structural damage to homes and buildings was negligible.

Much of the loss was not due to the power of the storm, but to failure to heed the warnings. Lulled into a false sense of security during a 14-year period in which Miami felt the wrath of only a single hurricane, many merchants did not board up.

They will next time, because Cleo made them pay a heavy price for carelessness by smashing through glass store fronts and damaging interiors with wind and rain.

Miami Beach's "hotel row" stood stoutly against the storm but vast expanses of unshuttered glass went out, and water and sand blew in to ruin expensive furniture, rugs and draperies.

Cleo, howling across the Florida Straits from Cuba, slammed hurricane force winds into Miami at 1:20 a.m. Aug. 27. One hour later, power failure plunged the city into darkness.

It was the loss of power that brought the greater discomfort. As the power and light company's overhead lines began to fall, electricity went off in 220,000 homes.

Thus most Miamians returned to primitive living conditions, without lights, refrigeration, cooking facilities, air conditioning or hot water — some for as long as five days. Some, depending on wells, had no water at all.

The hard days brought renewed cries, first heard years ago, for underground power lines.

Leaving Miami, Cleo hugged the coast northward, damaging other resort cities up to Palm Beach. By the time the storm reached Cape Kennedy, it had weakened.

But Cleo hung together, spawned several tornadoes in South Carolina, dumped heavy rains and triggered floods in Virginia that added two more names to the death toll.

Then, back out to sea, Cleo drew renewed strength from the water, revved up again to hurricane force and headed off to the northeast toward an eventual death over the cold waters of the North Atlantic.

12 HOURS A DAY

Nixon To Pull Hard For GOP Runners

NEW YORK (AP) — Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon registered as a New York voter Friday and said he would campaign 12 hours a day for the Republican national ticket and Sen. Kenneth B. Keating. He described both as underdogs.

Nixon, who moved to New York following his defeat in the 1962 California gubernatorial race, said, "I think Sen. Keating is considered to be an underdog," and added: "I'm a realist. I think the national ticket is also in an underdog position, but I haven't written off New York. It would be a great mistake to write off any section of the nation."

Nixon, who said he would campaign throughout October, related he would spend much time in Upstate New York in behalf of Keating, challenged for his seat by Robert F. Kennedy, brother of the late president.

Nixon said he would attempt to "bring together the supporters of Goldwater for Keating. I am for both Goldwater and Keating."

Keating is running independently of the national ticket, although Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona has urged his reelection. Goldwater is the GOP presidential nominee.

Nixon said he believes a number of influential Democrats soon will form a committee in support of Goldwater, just as a number of Republicans have done for President Johnson.

"Usually the Republican candidate counts on big business," Nixon told reporters, "but the Democratic party is now the party of big business, and Goldwater is the candidate of the people not in that category."

Nixon said the major campaign issue would be Viet Nam where, he said, "We're being beaten, we're losing."

"There is too much attention paid to the political situation and not enough to the military," he added. "The important thing is to let the people of Viet Nam know they are going to win."

"We have got to develop a plan, then adopt that plan and then implement it with a military program, including beefed up weapons and training."

Area Democrat Urges Support For Goldwater

NEWELLTON (Special) — Rep. S. S. DeWitt of Tensas Parish joined Sen. Charles Brown, Tallulah, and Rep. Vail Delony, Lake Providence, Friday in supporting Sen. Barry Goldwater for President.

DeWitt, co-chairman of the Goldwater for President organization here, said, "I am a registered Democrat, but I can see no possible way for me to support the Johnson ticket."

He charged that the Democratic administration had made "a scrap of paper out of the Constitution, just as they did the Monroe doctrine."

"I am very much in favor of a wholesale change from the President on down," DeWitt said.

He added, "I urge every citizen to get out and actively support Sen. Goldwater for President. If you have any friends or relatives who live in the North or East, write them a letter and ask them to do all they can to elect Barry Goldwater."

Lowan Files Suit To Delete Demos Off State Ballot

DES MOINES (AP) — A suit asking that the Democratic presidential slate be stricken from the Nov. 3 election ballot in Iowa was filed Friday, and Republican Atty. Gen. Evan Hultman asked that a Democrat defend it.

Hultman, the GOP candidate for governor, said he is asking the Iowa Executive Council, which meets next Tuesday, to appoint Des Moines attorney Eugene Davis to represent the state in the suit.

"Because of the political overtones, I personally am faced with the proposition of conducting this in a way that would be most fair to all," Hultman said.

Davis said he will accept the job if the council appoints him.

The attorney general's office normally represents state officials when such suits are filed against them. Hultman said it is not unusual for special counsel to be requested.

The suit was filed in Polk County District Court by Gordon Risher of Winterset, Conservative party candidate for attorney general, and his mother, demanding that Republican Secretary of State Melvin Synhorst keep the names off the ballot.

Synhorst said Risher assured him it was a "friendly" effort to resolve legal questions resulting from Synhorst's action in placing the names of President Johnson and vice-presidential candidate Hubert H. Humphrey on the ballot.

WOULDN'T END IT

Senator Dislikes GOP Draft Stand

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., differed sharply Friday with a proposal by Sen. Barry Goldwater, the Republican presidential candidate, to end the draft.

"Our military manpower policies are a highly complex matter and a subject on which it is easier to raise questions than to provide answers," said Symington, a former secretary of the Air Force.

Symington had prepared his criticism of the Goldwater draft proposals for a Senate speech. But a token 2-second Senate session, barring any business including speeches, caused him to release it as a statement.

Opening his presidential campaign in Prescott, Ariz., Goldwater urged an end of the compulsory military draft and charged the Democratic administration with use of "military services for political and social schemes."

Symington said he fully supports President Johnson's statement that the military draft must continue while studies are underway to improve military manpower policies.

The Missouri senator recalled that the draft was suspended briefly after World War II until it was found necessary to revive it in 1948 in order to obtain necessary manpower.

Although voluntary enlistments provide the bulk of enlisted personnel each year, Symington said these are stimulated in part by existence of the compulsory draft.

He said the draft provided 18 per cent or 74,438 of the 402,000 recruits for the armed services in fiscal year 1963.

In recent years only the Army has required inductees to fill its ranks. Volunteers meet needs of the Air Force, Navy and Marine Corps.

Even if volunteers provided all manpower needed, Symington said the defense forces would have the problem of retaining skilled technicians.

"Everybody would be happy to get rid of the military draft immediately, but we must know the facts facing us," he said.

Earlier, another Democrat, Sen. Gaylord Nelson of Wisconsin, said the Goldwater draft proposal was "sheer demagoguery."

Nelson said that Goldwater, an Air Force reserve major general, had voted to extend the draft.

He challenged Goldwater to cite a specific example of use of the draft for "political and social schemes."

SUGGESTIONS FROM READERS

An East Providence, R. I., nurse has a good suggestion. She writes, "It occurred to me, after reading your article on poisons and dangerous drugs, that wrapping sandpaper around bottles containing possibly harmful substances would be a deterrent to the children, as it has a repulsive feel. Or, better, a rough material might be incorporated into the glass of the bottle during its manufacture."

All poisons should be placed under lock and key. Some manufacturers are trying to discourage children from opening the containers by utilizing tricky tops. But the responsibility for preventing mishaps of this kind still rests with the parents. They don't realize their "baby" is growing and the time has come when he can reach previously inaccessible places.

Children will eat or drink anything from a familiar bottle and, in this respect, the nurse's suggestion is worthwhile. It is amazing what tots will do with poisons. They may be finicky at the table but will gulp kerosene or a bleach from a coke bottle, as tho it were the best tasting drink they ever had.

A Galesburg woman offers the following suggestion about allergy to a cotton ball:

"First, rinse off soap thoroughly after bathing. Second, wear a larger bra. I had a severe rash, particularly under the breasts, and paid a dermatologist $25 for telling me the eruption was caused by pressure. I switched to a mild soap, rinsed and dried thoroughly after bathing, bought a larger size bra — and my troubles are over."

This woman received $25 worth of advice. The cause was detected and removed and cure followed. This plan might not work if the rash were caused by the nickel in the fasteners. This is a relatively common source of skin allergy. Furthermore, some persons are sensitive to the ingredients used in laundering clothing, and it may be that our Galesburg friend obtained relief after more thorough rinsing of the garment.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.

Students whose names begin with A-K will report to Dodson Auditorium to be tested and those whose names begin with L-Z will go to the Geology Auditorium.

WOMAN JAILER GETS OUT

DIXON, Ill. (AP) — After 39 years in jail, the only woman jailer in the United States is getting out.

Mrs. Esther M. Schwank says she is resigning as turnkey and natron of the Lee County Jail.

When she took the job in 1925, she had no idea it would turn into such a lengthy stay.

During the years she was praised as a good cook, kicked, cursed and even hit on the head.

Yes. This form of photosensitivity occurs in some people. It represents a chemical reaction between the oil of bergamot in perfume and the ultraviolet rays of the sun.

SHADOWS LEAP with Brazil's Maria Bueno, forecourt, as she backhands ball to Jenny Morris, of Southern Rhodesia, in second round of the national tennis

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Johnny Callison singled across the winning run minutes after Frank Thomas tied the game with a two-run homer in the eighth inning as national league-leading Philadelphia defeated San Francisco 5-3 Friday night in the first of a key three-game series.

The victory moved the Phillies 6½ games ahead of the second place Cincinnati Reds, who lost to Milwaukee 2-0.

After an out, Gus Triandos doubled and scored on Callison's single to center field.

Callison then moved to third as Ruben Amaro singled and came home on a squeeze bunt by Jack Baldschun.

The Phillies had tied the score 1-1 in the sixth on a walk, a sacrifice and Alex Johnson's double. But Art Mahaffey ran into trouble with two out in the seventh. Jim Davenport singled, and Pagan followed with his homer atop the left field roof.

Jim Hart slammed his 25th home run to give the Giants' 1-0 lead in the second behind southpaw Dick Estelle, who made his major league debut. Estelle, recalled from Tacoma in the Pacific Coast League, protected the lead until the sixth.

The 22-year-old hurler was helped by a sensational catch by Willie Mays in the fourth when the San Francisco center fielder leaped up and bounced off the scoreboard to take an extra base hit away from Amaro and save a run. After Pagan's homer, Estelle was lifted for a pinch hitter.

Mets Rally To Divide Twinbill With Dodgers

NEW YORK (AP) — Three runners raced home when Tommy Davis flubbed Bobby Klaus' two-out liner in the eighth inning, giving the New York Mets a 6-5 second game victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers Friday night and a split of their doubleheader.

Dodger right-hander Don Drysdale blanked the Mets 3-0 on three hits in the opener.

Trailing 5-2 in the eighth inning of the second game, the Mets scored one run and loaded the bases off reliever Bob Miller on singles by Jim Hickman, Bob Taylor, Ed Kranepool and George Altman.

Klaus lined to Davis near the left field foul line, but the ball went through the Dodger outfielder as Taylor, Kranepool and Altman scored.

Two-run bursts in the sixth and seventh innings and another run in the eighth had given the Dodgers their three-run lead after Met rookie Dennis Ribant blanked them on one hit over the first five.

DEFEATS TERRY RYAN

Ralston Takes 1st Round National Tennis Victory

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) — Second-seeded Dennis Ralston, one of the big two in America's Davis Cup defense, won a hollow first round victory in the National Tennis Championships and complained, "I was lousy."

"If I don't get better I won't last long," the gifted but erratic young man from Bakersfield, Calif., grumbled after winning over Terry Ryan of South Africa, 10-8, 6-3, default.

After losing the second set, Ryan told the umpire he was unable to continue.

"I couldn't breathe," the handsome, dark-haired South African said. "Every time I tried to breathe I felt I had to cough."

He was whisked from the center court to the marquee where a doctor examined him and declared him a victim of heat exhaustion. The temperature was near 90 and the humidity was high.

Ryan was one of three players forced to default because of the sweltering conditions. Steve Wilkinson of San Antonio, Tex., quit in the third set against Dimitri Sturdza of Switzerland, who was leading 5-7, 6-0, 5-0 at the time. "I felt miserable," Wilkinson said.

Robert Brien of Australia retired in the fifth set in a

Oliva Homers Twice In 14-3 Twins Victory

MINNEAPOLIS - ST. PAUL (AP) — Rookie Tony Oliva hit a pair of two-run homers and Harmon Killebrew socked his 45th, leading a Minnesota bombardment that buried Boston 14-3 Friday night.

Oliva followed a triple by Zoilo Versalles with his 29th homer in the seventh inning and again scored Versalles with his 30th homer, an inside-the-park blast, in the eighth.

The homers put Oliva three short of a teammate Jimmie Hall's record of 33 by an American League rookie in a season.

Killebrew's three-run clout, which wiped out a 2-1 Red Sox lead, came in the third inning after Rich Rollins and Versalles had singled.

Versalles notched his 18th homer in the fifth to snap his own club record for most homers in a season by a shortstop. Versalles also tripled home a run.

Sovereign To Be Challenger From England

NEWPORT, R. I. (AP) — Sovereign was chosen Friday to be the British challenger for the America's Cup.

The royal-blue 12-meter yacht will meet the American defender, Constellation, in the 19th cup races starting Sept. 15 on Rhode Island Sound.

The Challenger was named after Sovereign had defeated Kurruwa V, the other contender, by a margin of 1 minute, 11 seconds in an abbreviated race. The victory gave Sovereign a 6-2 edge over Kurruwa in the final trials.

Vice Commodore Kenneth G. Poland notified Sovereign's owner, Anthony Boyden, and Peter Scott, its helmsman, of the decision by the Royal Thames Yacht Club selection committee when the craft docked after the trial.

Sovereign's crewmen were scarcely notified when Kurruwa's crew swarmed onto its deck, lifted a hearty cheer for the victor, sang a song in her praise and then jumped into the water.

The Kurruwa crew swam to Sovereign, clambered aboard, and started a good-natured scuffle which resulted in several of Sovereign's crew being thrown into Newport Harbor.

Braves Blank Cincinnati, 2-0

CINCINNATI (AP) — Tony Cloninger gave up only three hits Friday night and got all the help he needed from Eddie Mathews' two-run homer as the Milwaukee Braves beat Cincinnati, 2-0.

It was the second shut-out loss in a row for the second place Reds, who fell 6½ games behind National League-leading Philadelphia. The Phillies defeated San Francisco 5-3. Cincinnati has scored only one run in the last 34 innings.

Vada Pinson, who doubled in the first inning, was the only Red to reach second base as Cloninger picked up his 15th victory in 27 decisions.

Joey Jay, now 9-10, scattered five hits and struck out 12.

Boyer's Homer In Ninth Gives Cards Win, 8-5

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Ken Boyer's three-run homer with two out in the ninth inning boosted the St. Louis Cardinals past the Chicago Cubs 8-5 Friday night.

Boyer connected off Fred Burdette, third Cub pitcher in the ninth, snapping a 5-5 deadlock and running his RBI total to 100.

The winning blow came after Carl Warwick had been thrown out at the plate on Dick Groat's grounder. Warwick, pinch hitting for winning pitcher Gordon Richardson, led off the inning with a single and was sacrificed to second. John Flavin replaced Don Elston and yielded a single to Lou Brock. Warwick stopping at third.

The Cardinals tied the score 5-5 in the eighth on singles by Mike Shannon and Bob Skinner and a double steal, Shannon scoring from third. The Cubs had gone ahead in the top of the eighth on a triple by Ellis Burton and Billy Williams' single.

Tribe Schedules Two-Hour Scrimmage This Afternoon

Northeast State's football squad ends its first week of fall drills with only one workout Saturday, a two-hour session scheduled to begin at 4 p.m.

The Indians will have the day off Sunday, then resume with two-day workouts Monday as they aim at the Sept. 19 opener at Delta State.

Coach Dixie White and his staff currently have the squad divided into white and blue groups with the whites forming the top three teams at present. The white-shirted left ends at

At left tackle, the leaders are Preston Hollier, James Blackman and Freddy Hughes. Alden Fontenot, Ronnie Sumter and John McGehee are on the right side.

Co-captain Joe McClain, Sam Corzine and Nick LaBarbera are the white left guards and James Kirkendall, Joe Bondurant and Fred Stuck the right guards.

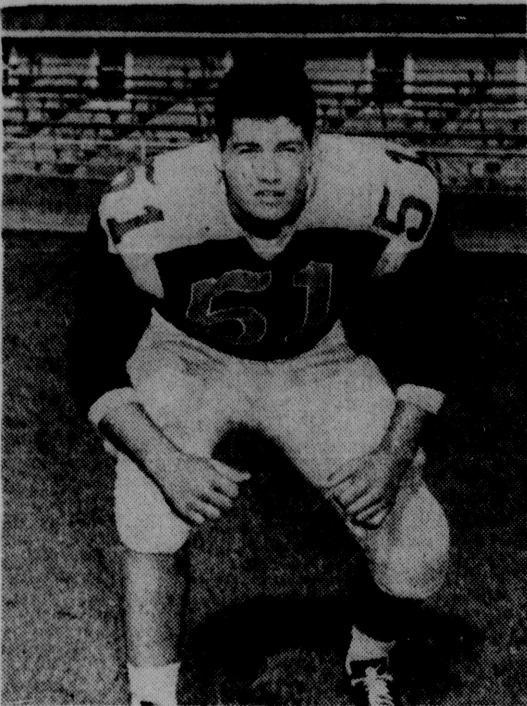

The other co-captain, Tommy Beaubé, and Ricky Hammarstrom and Wayne Armbruster are the centers. Top contenders at quarterback are Dee Faircloth, Johnny Garrison, Bookie Shillcutt and Melvin Shows.

At left half, Robert Payne, R. F. Wilson and Ray Pommier are the leaders and Neal Gunn, Alton Thomas and Lynn Mitchell are at right.

Devone Payne, David Elkin, Ronnie Graham and Charles Bailey are the fullbacks.

Rohner, McRaney, Corzine, Bondurant, McGehee, Hughes and Mitchell were redshirts last year. Garrison, Hammarstrom, Bailey and McRaney are junior college transfers while Holland, Young, Gunn, Blackman, LaBarbera, Stuck, Armbruster and Shows are other newcomers. The rest are lettermen.

MUCH OF Northeast State's 1964 football hopes ride on defensive linebacker Tommy Beaubé, left and 1962 GSC rushing leader Robert Payne. These two Indians will be in action today in a full scrimmage on Northeast's practice field at 4 p.m.

FOR CLAY REMATCH

Sonny Liston Begins Work

DENVER (AP)—Sonny Liston will begin training on Labor Day for what he hopes will be a rematch with heavyweight champion Cassius Clay, who stopped him on a technical knockout in Miami in February. Liston admitted he doesn't know when the fight will be held, but said reports it would be in Boston Nov. 16 fitted with what he's heard.

Liston said he has been doing roadwork for three weeks and weighs 220. He looked fit.

"My shoulder feels good," he said, referring to the injury that led to his surrender of the championship.

"I know how my shoulder feels and if it's not right, I'm not going to fight," he said.

He was critical of comment by sports writers on the question of a rematch with Clay. "After I knocked out Patterson in one round the first time," Liston said, "How come you all didn't write that Patterson should fight someone else first to prove he could take a punch?"

Liston knocked out former champion Floyd Patterson in both of their fights.

MILAN, Italy (AP) — Holland, the defending champion, crushed France 30-0 Friday in the European baseball championships. The Dutch collected 24 runs in the first inning.

Pirates Romp Past Colts 10-2 With Mazeroski

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Bill Mazeroski belted three hits, driving in four runs, and Donn Clendenon rapped three hits and knocked in three runs as Pittsburgh trampled Houston 10-2 Friday night behind the seven-hit pitching of Bob Veale.

Veale, gaining his 15th victory against 10 defeats, struck out seven and walked three.

Mazeroski homered off Houston starter Bob Bruce, 13-8, in the second inning, driving in the first two Pirate runs.

The Pirates drove Bruce from the mound in the third when they tallied three runs on singles by Bob Bailey and Bill Virdon, a double by Jerry Lynch, Jerry Grote's passed ball and Clendenon's single.

Clendenon scored another run in the fifth when he tripled and came home on Mazeroski's single.

The Pirates erupted four more runs in the sixth as Bailey, Virdon and Roberto Clemente cracked singles and Clendenon followed with a triple that popped out of Carroll Hardy's glove in deep centerfield. Mazeroski then lined a single, driving in his fourth run.

Detroit Hands Senators Third Straight Shutout

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dave Wickersham, with relief help from Fred Gladding, posted his 17th victory Friday night as Detroit handed Washington its third straight shutout 1-0 on Norm Cash's sacrifice fly.

Wickersham, who has lost 10 times, allowed only three hits in eight innings. Gladding pitched the ninth. Wickersham struck out four and walked four.

The Tigers scored the only run of the game in the second inning on Don Demeter's double, a bloop single to center by Bill Freehan that sent Demeter to third and Cash's sacrifice fly.

Claude Osteen again was a hard-luck loser as he failed for the fourth time to win No. 13. Osteen had the Senators' only extra base-hit, a leadoff double in the sixth, but he was nailed at third on Ed Brinkman's attempted sacrifice.

The Senators, who have scored only one run in their last four games and are scoreless through 28 innings, hit into double plays in the fourth and fifth innings, and Dick Phillips flied out with the bases loaded in the sixth.

MRS. CLAUDE TRUMAN COLLINS

Collins-Roberson Vows Exchanged In Tallulah

First Baptist Church in Tallulah was the setting on Saturday afternoon, August 22, at five o'clock when Miss Judy Diane Roberson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Garland Roberson, became the bride of Claude Truman Collins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilburn T. Collins. The Rev. John Hurt performed the double ring ceremony.

Against a background of greenery, wrought iron candelabra entwined with ivy held white cathedral candles. The couple stood beneath an ivy-trimmed arch flanked by pedestal baskets of white gladioli. Candle lighters were Jane Roberson and Stephen Collins.

Nuptial music was provided by Mrs. J. E. Courtney, organist, and Miss Barbara Addison, soloist.

The bride was escorted to the altar by her father who gave her in marriage. She wore a floor length gown of white silk organza over taffeta designed with a bodice of alencon lace, the back accented with tiny lace covered buttons. The bateau neckline was re-embroidered with seed pearls and the elbow length sleeves were finished with scallops. The slim controlled skirt featured appliques of lace and seed pearls, the pleats at the back waistline extended into a train. Her veil was attached to a small white pill box of lace and pearls and she carried a bouquet of gladioli, white carnations and ivy.

Miss Jeanie Roberson, sister of the bride, was maid of honor and bridesmaids were Miss Marilyn Roberson, Miss Gloria Bradley, Miss Lynne Gordy and Miss Janet Sturdivant. They wore identical street length dresses of bronze peau de soie with scoop neckline and skirts pleated in front with flat bows in the back. Their headpieces were flowers of matching net with short veils and they carried crescent bouquets of deep orange gladioli and pompons. Their slippers matched their costumes.

Larry Walker served the bridegroom as best man and the groomsmen - ushers were Tommy Neumann, Don Privett, Gerald Collins, Dalton Fortenberry and Ronald Hancock.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Roberson chose a beige dress with brown accessories and Mrs. Collins was attired in blue and matching accessories. Both mothers had purple orchid corsages.

A reception followed the ceremony in the church parlors, which were decorated with greenery and white flowers. The bride's table, centered with

HINTS FROM HELOISE

List On Freezer Helps In Buying Food

By Heloise Cruse

Dear Heloise:

My refrigerator has a small freezer. For about a year now I have been taping a piece of paper on the freezer door, with a list of the contents of the freezer.

I add to the list after I have shopped, and cross off items as they are used. In this way I always know what foods I have without rummaging through the entire freezer. I also know what to buy each week after consulting the list.

When steaks are on sale, and I don't have any, I stock up on them. If I see that I have a sufficient supply, I pass up that sale. This applies to all frozen foods.

After defrosting, I list the contents on a fresh piece of paper and attach it to the door with tape.

This hint can be applied to any type freezer. Just put the list where it is not seen by others unless the refrigerator or freezer is opened.

Loranae Begun

Dear Heloise:

Have you ever had a beautiful head scarf or neck scarf and dreaded washing it because you were afraid it might come out limp as a rag?

I wash and rinse mine carefully (do not squeeze) then roll the scarf in a terry cloth towel and pat to remove as much moisture as possible.

Then I press them WITH the grain of the material with a WARM iron.

When they are in shape, lift them from the ironing board and cover the ironing board with waxed paper. Lay the scarf on it and give a final press.

Enough of the wax goes into the fibers of the scarf to make it like a new one!

Dorothy Ketchum
Try it, gals. It's fabulous. Makes it sorta rainproof, too.

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

I have discovered a way to save a package of bologna once it has been opened.

I remove the slices from the package and place each slice between pieces of waxed paper. Then I put them all in a plastic bag and freeze them. Whenever I want to make a sandwich, I just remove one frozen slice.

The sandwich is prepared as usual and the meat is defrosted by lunch time.

Housewife

Dear Heloise:

When wrapping gift packages, I use the pretty plastic flowers found in any dime store rather than the conventional bows.

Just a sprig of tiny flowers or a single large bloom tied with a single shoe-lace bow makes an especially nice package.

If you fold the stems under, rather than cutting them off, the recipient has an added memento to display in a vase.

Recently, I wrapped a bridal shower gift and used a sprig of tiny white roses as a miniature bridal bouquet, right down to the satin streamers formed by the tying ribbon. You never heard so many nice comments.

Mrs. D. H. H.

Dear Heloise:

Don't throw away an old rubber glove until you cut the fingers off. They can be used on your thumb when cutting fruits and vegetables so that you won't cut your thumb into slices!

BLEMISHES IN FOOD, TEXTILES

NEW YORK (AP) — A dual-element photosensitive device has been designed (by Sylvania Electric Products Inc.) to detect dark spots on food and textiles.

The device was designed to meet the need for advanced quality control systems in both textile and food processing industries.

The photosensitive elements are composed of strips of cadmium sulfide, segmented by the electrode pattern in such a way that each strip is several cells connected in series.

Because of the dual element design, changes in temperature and light have little or no effect on operation.

In a typical food application, a one-half-inch field on a french fried potato conveyor is monitored for blemishes, measuring 1-16 inch in diameter.

BARBOURVILLE, Ky. (AP) — At Dr. Thomas Walker State Park is a memorial to the explorer who preceded Daniel Boone into Kentucky by 20 years.

DEAR ABBY

Youngsters Prefer A Little Disarray

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am almost 16 and my problem is a mother who won't let me have a girl friend over unless the house is in perfect order. She's afraid the girl might go home and tell her mother that she's a poor housekeeper. Abby, my girl friends don't go to people's homes to see what kind of housekeeper the mother is. I know when I am at someone's house, I never notice the housekeeping unless it is horribly messed up, and even then I wouldn't care, or say anything about it. Can't you explain this to my mother, Abby? She reads your column, and I can't seem to make her understand.

WANTS COMPANY

DEAR WANTS: I'll try. Dear Mother: There is nothing more comforting to a mother than knowing where her daughter is, and with whom. You can insure this feeling by encouraging your daughter to bring her friends home, and letting them know they are welcome any time. Youngsters take little notice of housekeeping. In fact, a little disarray is strangely inviting.

DEAR ABBY: Two years ago I had an affair with a woman who left her husband and children to live with me. I left my wife and children, too, but I couldn't stay away from them so I finally broke up with this woman. After I left her, she claimed the last child she had was mine. It could be, so I have been giving her money. I've been hiding all this from my wife, but we've been having so many arguments over money lately that she suspects me of keeping this woman. If I stop giving her money, I'm afraid she'll take me to court and the mess will be known. If I keep giving her money, I'll lose my wife. I want to save my marriage because I could never be happy with this other woman. I've already hurt my wife so much, I don't want to hurt her any more. Please answer in your column. I can't get mail at home. Thank you.

TROUBLED

DEAR TROUBLED: You need a lawyer. To submit to blackmail for the rest of your life is unnecessary. If she does take you to court and the mess "becomes known," it shouldn't shock your wife too much because she knew you left her to live with another woman. Let the law decide how much, if anything, the other woman is entitled to. And pay up like a man, if you must.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I were at our club recently, and while dancing with an eligible bachelor who has been a hunting friend of my husband's for years, something he said left me with mixed emotions. He said, "If anything ever happens to your husband, I want you." I confess I was both flattered and disturbed. How would you have taken that remark?

OVERWHELMED

As a warning. Don't let your husband go hunting with this "friend" any more.

DEAR ABBY: I started trying to remember the last time my husband gave me a compliment or told me that he loved me and, Abby, it had been so many years ago I couldn't remember. Then one day last week I heard you say on the radio that the way to get love was to give it. So that night when my husband was helping me dry dishes, I suddenly put my arms around his neck and said, "Darling, do you know that I love you?"

He was so overcome, he almost dropped the cup he was drying. Then he kissed me like I hadn't been kissed in years! I just can't tell you how much it meant to both of us, Abby. I am 62 and he is 64.

BACK TO SCHOOL AT 54

MILLEDGEVILLE, 11 (AP) — A Milledgeville grandfather has started a new career at an age when most men begin planning retirement. He's ready to begin teaching school.

Clair Heyer, 54, received his bachelor's degree last fall from Shimer College at Mount Carroll and is working toward a master's degree in history at Northern Illinois University, De Kalb.

"We always regretted that I had not finished school," he said. "Many of my friends are teachers. When my two daughters left home for college, my wife returned to teaching and this stimulated my interest."

Heyer said his age proved to be both an advantage and a disadvantage. Study was easier, but coeds called him "Sir."

NEW ANTIQUE SUPERMARKET

NEW YORK (AP) — A supermarket for antiques? Sound unlikely? It's the last wrinkle on how to get a price-less antique for a song in London, according to the British Travel Association.

Antiques in London cost one-third to one-half of comparable prices in the United States, anyway, and the new Antique Supermarket on Barret Street, brings down prices even more.

More than 50 individual dealers rent stands in the vast warehouse near Selfridge's, the famous auction dealers. Anything from an 18th Century purple pottery Staffordshire cow to a Louis XV clock is available.

Buyers wander through picking out bargains six days a week and late at night Thursdays.

The problem of what to do with the telephone directories is solved with a storage case in library binding. The twin compartment case has the words "Telephone Books" embossed in gold on the cover.

Questions And Answers To Decorating Problems

By BETTY PEPIS

Q: My brother is a college student. Please give some suggestions for brightening it without making the room distracting. Floors, cornices and woodwork are varnished oak, walls are blue and draperies a nutmeg brown.

A: Pale curry color walls would be much more cheerful than blue. Draperies could be a small plaid in curry, white and beige. Chair cushion and bed skirt could also be in the plaid. Select a rich curry color for scatter rugs and also for the bedspread.

Q: Rug and draperies in living room are a cinnamon color. A cheerful print in an off-white ground with cinnamon, shades of blue flowers and olive green leaves covers a sofa and chair. Would olive green be a good color for a second chair? If not, what do you suggest? Also what color for walls?

A: An olive green chair should go well in the room. Have walls in a pale cinnamon or off-white. Pick up blue in small accessories.

Q: Living and dining rooms in our new ranch-style house are average size. All we now have for the living room is a turquoise blue incidental chair and draperies in a rose, gray and black print. What colors for scatter rugs, a sectional sofa and chairs?

A: To make rooms appear more spacious, paint both alike in, for instance, a pale lemon yellow. Have rugs in a moss green. Cover sofa in moss green too and two chairs in rich lemon yellow. However, draperies will have to be changed, certainly in the living room, these should be in same color as walls.

Hudson-Wise Nuptials Read In Elmwood

In a double ring ceremony on Sunday, August 30 in Elmwood Baptist Church, Miss Sherry Ann Wise, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George R. Wise of Lake Providence became the bride of Billy Wayne Hudson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hudson of Vinton.

Pedestal baskets of white gladioli and jade greenery formed a setting at the altar for the ceremony performed by Rev. R. V. Kinney. Nuptial music was presented by H. T. Forbes Jr., pianist.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a gown of white peau de soie with moulded bodice and high round-neckline, outlined in seed pearls. The bell shaped skirt swept to the back where pleats formed a short train effect. Her shoulder length veil of illusion was held in place by a crown of seed pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of white carnations and stephanotis.

The bride's only attendant was her sister, Miss Kay Wise. She wore a short dress of yellow polished cotton with belled skirt and bolero jacket. Her headpiece was a circular veil attached to a crownless pillbox of yellow polished cotton and she carried a nosegay of white carnations with maline puffs.

Tommy Pixton of Ruston attended Mr. Hudson as best man and ushers were Jimmy Wise, brother of the bride and Billy Wayne Wiggins.

For her daughters wedding Mrs. Wise selected a yellow linen sheath with matching accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the home of the bride's parents where the yellow and white theme was repeated in the decorations. Mrs. E. E. Holly of Mangum served the tiered wedding cake and presiding at the crystal punch bowl opposite an arrangement of yellow and white summer flowers was Miss Sharon Essex.

When the couple left on a short wedding trip the bride was wearing a two piece cotton suit trimmed in brown with brown accessories and the corsage from her bouquet. They will be at home in Ruston where both are students at Louisiana Tech.

LONDON (AP) — Dr. Sidney Farber, chairman of President Johnson's Committee on Cancer, predicted Friday that modern research will conquer the disease.

"The date is not clear," Farber told a luncheon of the Variety Club of Great Britain. "But cancer sets a series of problems we can tackle with the tools we already possess. We can see the answer in the foreseeable future."

Farber stopped off en route to an international cancer conference in Stockholm, Sweden. He won the Variety Club's international humanitarian award in 1963 for research into cancer.

OVER INTEGRATION

More Fire Strikes In Negro Sections

attorney who has threatened a suit in U.S. District Court to force integration of schools.

But only a few days after the first fires, the subject had been dropped from curbstone discussions and some officials declined to discuss it even when asked.

"I'd rather not say anything now — for the good of the community," the Rev. David H. Zaunmeyer, former head of the Human Rights Committee, said.

Since the committee's formation a year ago, most of its members have quit and the others haven't met for months.

One member, the Rev. Hayward Henry, says it never took any action.

Formation of the committee came as a surprise to some. So did an announcement a few weeks ago that complete integration — the first in Montgomery County — would take place this fall.

CHECKS MADE HERE

No Encephalitis Found In State

No positive cases of encephalitis have been reported in Louisiana, but mosquitoes are still being trapped and studied every day, Dr. Paul Scheppf, state entomologist, said here Friday.

Some "suspicious cases" were reported in West Feliciana Parish, near St. Francisville, several weeks ago and plans were immediately put into action to run spot checks throughout the state at strategic points to check mosquitoes in Louisiana.

Primary targets for the mosquito investigations are Shreveport and Lake Charles because of their proximity to Texas. Alexandria and Monroe are also under observation, Dr. Scheppf said.

The state entomologist stated that no cases of encephalitis have been reported in the state since 1947 when there was an epidemic caused by the virus disease.

Dr. Scheppf explained that there are three types of the encephalitis virus which have been classified, Eastern, Western and St. Louis. He said that all three were very similar, but the St. Louis variety is the milder of the three forms.

The culex quinquefasciatus or common house mosquito is the culprit in the recent encephalitis outbreak in Texas, Dr. Scheppf said. The females of the species are the only ones which bite. The males suck nectar but never bite. The culex mosquitoes are common in Louisiana, and these are primarily the ones the State Health Department is interested in catching, the entomologist stated.

Light traps, set up at 1608 St. Siard St. in Monroe and one in West Monroe, are the method employed to capture the insects. A 25 to 40 watt white light bulb is connected to the top of the trap. A fan underneath the light blows the insects into a jar which is hooked to the bottom of the metal trap.

In ordinary trappings, used to take common insect samplings, cyanide is used in the container to kill the insects as they enter the trap. However, Dr. Scheppf explained that cyanide, chloroform or ether (used to catch insects by hand) cannot be used in the traps for culex because they affect the virus if any of the captured insects harbor it.

"We don't have too much to worry about because of the lack of animal deaths from the disease," he said. He added that if animals start dying, the pace will be quickened to take more stringent measures against human contagion.

Dr. Scheppf has been separating all mosquitoes caught in traps all over the state according to species. They are then frozen and sent to New Orleans laboratory for examination.

Hand collections are used to catch species of the culex which are not attracted to the light. Whenever large numbers of mosquitoes gather in shed and outbuildings, a vacuum cleaner can be used to catch them, according to Dr. Scheppf.

Dr. Scheppf said that Twin City and area residents could help with mosquito control by emptying all tires, garbage

U.A.R. To Tell U.S. To Remove Troops In Saudi

ALEXANDRIA, U.A.R. (UPI) — The United Arab Republic will demand the removal of American troops from Saudi Arabia when the second Arab summit conference opens here today, the semi-official middle East News Agency reported Friday.

The agency said the U.A.R. will demand removal of foreign troops from all Arab countries and will present a note to the conference protesting the presence of about 60 U.S. military planes in Saudi Arabia.

Kings, princes and presidents of Arab nations began arriving Friday for the second summit conference in nine months.

A prime topic of discussion probably will be the U.A.R. dispute with Saudi Arabia over the Yemen.

Discussions also are expected on plans to counter Israel's proposal to divert water of the Jordan River to irrigate the Negev Desert and on the touchy internal disputes among the Arab states.

THINGS HEAT UP
MIDDLE WALLOP, England (UPI) — When farmer Charles Trueman's barley field caught fire he called the fire department. A few minutes after the truck arrived a fireman knocked on his door and asked, "Can we ring for another fire engine? Our engine is on fire."

Trueman said the truck caught fire when the wind changed.

FLEES TO FREEDOM
BERLIN (UPI) — A 17-year-old youth crawled through three Communist barbed wire barricades to the French sector of Berlin early Friday without being sighted by Red border guards, West Berlin police reported.

Mighty Amazon

12 Times Greater Than Mississippi

WASHINGTON (AP) — Scientists have taken the pulse of the mighty Amazon River — and found it 12 times greater than the Mississippi, the National Geographic Society reports.

Some 3.4 billion gallons of water pour into the Atlantic Ocean each minute from the river's mouth hydrologists from the U.S. Geological Survey have found.

The Amazon's flow—7.5 million cubic feet a second—could flood an area as big as Texas to a depth of one inch in just one day.

The river's bottom, the surveys found, is mostly a series of sand dunes underlaid with dense, gray clay. And in at least 10 locations measured, the river bottom was below sea level.

One of the Amazon's major tributaries, the Rio Negro or Black River, is purer than some of the tap water available in U.S. cities, the hydrologists said. They found no piranha—the killer fish that can strip a cow down to a skeleton in seconds. But they did find in the warm river waters a microscopic organism near the shore that produces an extremely irritating itch on the skin of swimmers.

While the Nile River of Africa is longer than the Amazon, the South American river drains an area nearly twice that of any other river in the world.

Humphrey Trip Covers 6 States Over Two Weeks

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, the Democratic vice-presidential nominee, announced plans Friday to campaign in six states in the next two weeks.

Humphrey will take off this morning for Minneapolis and a homecoming celebration. He will campaign in the Akron, Ohio, area on Labor Day.

Returning to Washington on Monday night, he will fly Thursday morning to Newark, N.J., and drive to Middlesex County to speak at a testimonial dinner for National Committeeman David W. Iltz.

Spending Thursday night in Newark, Humphrey will fly the following day to Watertown, S.D., and drive to his birthplace at Wallace, S.D. He also will visit Doland, where he spent his boyhood, and Huron, where members of his family still live.

On Sept. 12, Humphrey will fly to Denver, Colo., to spend a day of campaigning there. The following day, Sunday, remains open but he will journey to St. Louis, Mo., on Sept. 14 to speak there, at Springfield and Kansas City during the day, returning to Washington that night.

Oswald's Widow To Be Quizzed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Three members of the Warren Commission investigating the assassination of President John F. Kennedy are going to Dallas, Tex., today to question Marina Oswald, Russian-born widow of Lee Harvey Oswald, the accused assassin.

Sen. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., told a reporter he and Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., will fly to Dallas this afternoon. He said Rep. Hale Boggs, D-La., is going to join them there.

The commission, headed by Chief Justice Earl Warren, already has questioned Mrs. Oswald twice here.

Cooper said that after reviewing Mrs. Oswald's testimony there were a number of additional questions he wanted to ask her about her background and associations.

Africans Hold Up Johannesburg Bank

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Africans shot dead a white bank clerk and injured a white accountant in a holdup Friday outside a branch of Barclay's Bank in a suburb south-east of Johannesburg. They escaped with $19,000.

Six Africans surrounded a bank car loaded with cash, opened fire, grabbed a cash box and fled in a waiting car.

HOSPITAL GOOFS
MIDDLESBROUGH, England (UPI) — Mrs. Joan Maley demanded an explanation and an apology Friday from the hospital which put a plaster cast on her 2-year-old son's right leg after he broke his left leg.

Meridian Refuses To Enroll Negroes

MERIDIAN, Miss. (AP) — Two dozen young Negroes — one of them the brother of slain civil rights worker James Chaney — were blocked Friday in attempts to lower racial barriers at five of this city's all-white elementary schools.

Public schools in this city of 50,000 — second largest in Mississippi — have not been ordered to desegregate by federal courts.

The Council of Federated Organizations — COFO, which represents the major civil rights groups active in this Deep South state, said it would take legal action to desegregate the facilities.

The integration move here was similar to attempts earlier this week by 19 Negroes to gain entrance into Canton Junior-Senior High School in rural Madison County. Canton, like Meridian, is not under court order to admit Negroes to white schools.

Meanwhile, it was disclosed that two Negroes had registered without incident to attend first-grade classes at a Catholic parochial school at Gulfport. It marked the first announced integration of Catholic schools in the state under a recent directive by Bishop R. O. Gerow that they should end operations

California Act Would Eliminate Sen. Goldwater

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Legal action to take Sen. Barry Goldwater's name off the presidential ballot in California was filed Friday in two courts.

The contention is that he is not a natural-born citizen of the United States as defined in the Constitution. Goldwater was born in Arizona in 1909, three years before the territory was admitted to the Union.

Melvin A. Belli, the attorney who defended Jack Ruby, who killed the accused assassin of President John F. Kennedy, filed the action. He said he was retained by Ralph Ginsberg of New York, publisher of Fact magazine.

Arthur Jackson, 37, an office engineer in Belli's office building, was listed as the plaintiff in a petition for a writ of mandate directed against California Secretary of State Frank M. Jordan and filed in the State Supreme Court.

Jackson also was listed as plaintiff in a petition for a court order to direct Charles A. Rogers, registrar of voters of San Francisco, to leave Goldwater's name off the November ballot. This action was filed in San Francisco Superior Court.

Belli said Jackson was selected from a list of more than 50 people who wanted to file the papers because "he had more real interest in the case than anyone else."

Jackson is a Negro.

Belli said the provision in the U.S. Constitution requiring that the president be a natural-born citizen of the United States was originally directed at Albert Gallatin, a diplomat, statesman and financier, to prevent him from running against Alexander Hamilton for president. Gallatin was born in Switzerland.

Belli said the actions were filed in state rather than federal courts because "peculiar states rights questions" are involved in election matters.

Catahoula Meet For Promoting Goldwater Set

JONESVILLE (Special) — A parishwide meeting to organize a "Conservative Democrats for Goldwater" group will be held on Tuesday at 7:30 p. m. in the American Legion Auxiliary building here. It was announced by Ted Husser, member of the Louisiana State Central Committee representing Catahoula parish.

Fred Huenefeld Jr. of Monroe will be the principal speaker.

Included on the agenda will be election of a parish chairman, a secretary, and a treasurer.

"We extend an invitation to all elected officials as well as every citizen who is interested in electing Goldwater as the next president," Husser said.

A supply of pamphlets, bumper stickers, and membership cards will be available at the meeting.

Enrollment Up In Area Parish

JONESVILLE (Special) — Enrollment in Catahoula parish schools shows an overall increase this year over last year, according to figures released by A. L. Brooks, parish superintendent of education.

Total enrollment for the parish at opening of school this year was 3,438 which includes 2,133 white students and 1,305 Negro students. Last year's enrollment was 2,653 and 1,275 respectively. That reflects an overall increase of 150 students, 80 white and 70 Negro.

ONE DRIVEWAY, PINK WICHITA, Kan. (AP)—Valley Center High is the only school hereabouts sporting a pink driveway.

Members of a junior class won the gaudy asphalt driveway dressing in an essay competition sponsored by a petroleum company.

on a segregated basis this fall, beginning with the first grade.

At Biloxi, 17 Negro children finished the first week of integrated classes in four previously all-white elementary schools. A lone Negro girl is attending school with whites at Carthage in rural Leake County.

Public schools at Jackson have registered 43 Negro first-graders for desegregated classes which began Sept. 14 and the Clarksdale public school system is under orders to desegregate but has not yet received any applications from Negroes.

Police and federal agents kept a close watch at Meridian. Officers ordered two white men to leave the grounds at Witherspoon Elementary School. A COFO spokesman said three white men had tried to block Negroes at Highland School, but police said they didn't know about it.

Each of the Negroes was met at the school door by school authorities, who read a written statement: "I cannot accept you in this school."

They would not comment further.

Ben Chaney, 12, whose older brother, James, was one of three civil rights workers killed at nearby Philadelphia in Neshoba County last June, was one of those attempting to register.

Many of the Negroes were accompanied by parents. After being turned away, some of them went to the office of School Supt. L. O. Todd, who said he told them they must follow proper procedure to transfer to other schools.

At least three Negroes returned to the school they attended last year, received transfer papers and went to an all-white school, only to be rebuffed again.

COFO said if the denial was based solely on race, it was ample grounds for a federal court suit.

The civil rights group also said that a Negro tried to enroll in the fifth grade at St. Patrick's Catholic school, but was told that only the first grade had been ordered to drop racial barriers.

Goldwater Sees Home Fenced In

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater, who loves the desert's open beauty around his Phoenix home, is seeing it fenced off now that he is the Republican presidential nominee.

A steel mesh fence about 6 feet high is being erected around his hilltop estate. Another, about 3 feet high, has been installed to guard the driveway to the house.

The driveway gate, decorated with triangles, can be lowered to ground level to admit authorized visitors.

A telephone in a plastic enclosure, mounted on its own pole, permits visitors to telephone the house from the gate, about 50 yards away.

Plot Against LBJ Just Rumored

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — A top Texas Democrat said Friday his report to a civic club of a suspected plot against President Johnson's life was based entirely on a Democratic National Convention rumor.

Frank Erwin, Texas Democratic national committeeman, told the Austin Junior Chamber of Commerce on Thursday that FBI agents and Secret Service men investigated a reported assassination plot while the President delivered his speech accepting the party's presidential nomination at Atlantic City, N.J.

He said Friday, however, that he had no direct knowledge of such an investigation. He declined to say anything further about the matter.

In his speech to the Jaycees, Erwin said many arrests were made during the convention's final day last Thursday.

Both the FBI and the Secret Service said, however, no arrests had been made. The FBI said it was not investigating.

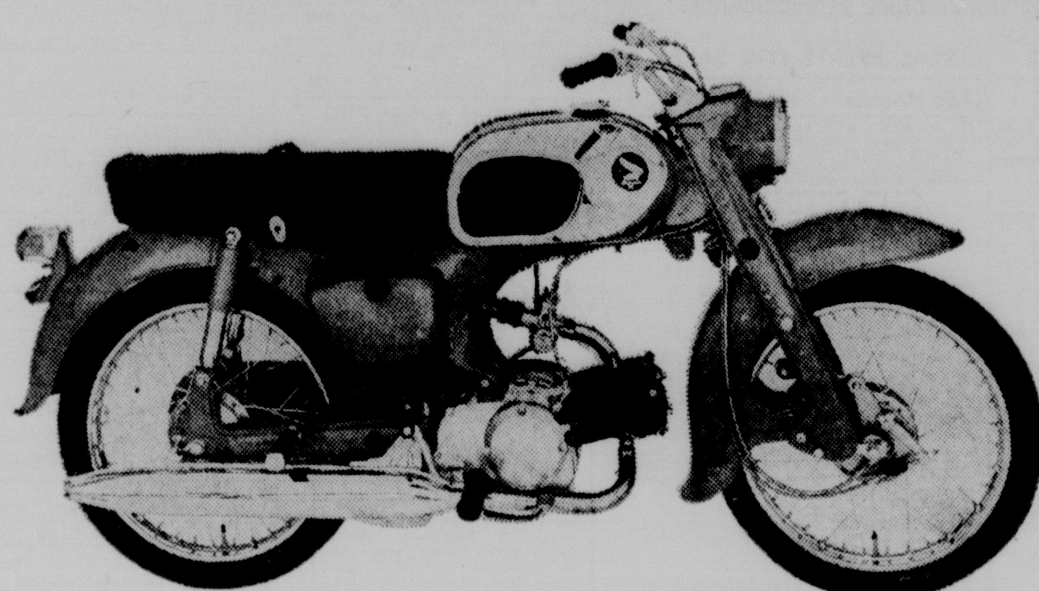

"There was a terrible scare on the last day of the convention," Erwin said in his speech. He said the scare started in New York city with the arrest of a Puerto Rican who told police he was en route to Atlantic City in a plot to assassinate Johnson.

New York police said a narcotics addict arrested Aug. 11 on a grand larceny charge talked irrationally about a plot on the President, but later recanted the entire story. The police said they gave a routine report of the incident to the Secret Service and the FBI, but added they had no reason to believe there was any truth to the man's story.
